Issues Presented for Review

Petitioner on the Post Conviction memorandum alleges that both his trial attorney and his Appellate Attorney have performed below their objective reasonableness and as a result were ineffective in their duty in violation of the guarantees of the sixth amendment to the right of effective assistance of counsel in a criminal prosecution

1. The trial attorney was ineffective on the following grounds:

A. Petitioner's trial attorney refused to file a motion to quash the arrest based on the fact that Petitioner was held for six (6) days prior to being brought before a judge for a first appearance and that more than forty-eight (48) hours as prescribed by law for judicial determination of probable cause had long expired before the Petitioner was brought to court.

B. Counsel was ineffective for his failure to highlight the discrepancies in the conduct detailed in police reports concerning the allegation of a specific "flash message" reportedly used to assist in the apprehension of the petitioner. The content of these reports concerning the "flash message" was in contradiction of the facts alleged by the victims of the crime as well as on-scene reports of Chicago Police Department R/O's. Counsel's failure to file for suppression of this alleged perjured information and reports is viewed by the petitioner as issue of ineffective counsel.

C. Trial attorney was ineffective in denying the petitioner the opportunity to testify when petitioner asked that he be put on the stand to testify.

D. The trial court was incorrect in failing to dismiss the indictment by the Grand Jury based on the presence of perjured testimony and it's use in obtaining the indictment in violation of petitioner's due process rights.

2. The Appellate Attorney was ineffective as counsel on five (5) grounds:

A. For not consulting with petitioner in any way or form before filing an appellate brief on direct appeal of this case.

B. Appellate Attorney was ineffective for failure to raise an ineffective assistance of trial counsel claim based on the claims presented in this Petition under argument one (1), A,B,C, and D.

C. Appellate Attorney was ineffective for not arguing in her appellate brief that the indictment charging petitioner for the commission of the crime in this case consist of perjured testimony and that it is insufficient to support the conviction.

D. Appellate Attorney was ineffective for failure to raise "Plain Error" by trial court in it's finding where the allegation by the victims in the record did not support the indictment and the evidence at trial did not support the indictment.

E. Appellate Attorney was ineffective for failure to raise the claim that the trial court erred in it's ruling on the insufficiency of indictment claim raised during trial by defense counsel in the Motion for Directed Finding and after trial in the Motion in Arrest of Judgement where the trial court based it's finding solely on evidence at trial rather than on a question of law.

F. Petitioner's request to reserve issue on the legality of the complaints filed in court against the Petitioner which commenced prosecution against the Petitioner six (6) days after his arrest.

Memorandum of Law in Support of Post Conviction Petition

Now Comes Defendant Kevin Patterson Pro Se, and in the above cause hereby submits this Memorandum of Law to support his claims on the petition for post conviction relief now filed before this court.

Petitioner on this Post Conviction Memorandum alleges that both his trial attorney and his appellate attorney have performed below their objective reasonableness and as a result were ineffective in their duty in violation of the guarantees of the Sixth Amendment to the right to effective assistance of counsel in a criminal prosecution.

Petitioner will hereby list his claims of counsel's deficiency of representation both on trial and on appeal and also present his arguments in support of those claims as stated in his post coviction petition.

(1) The trial attorney was ineffective on the following grounds:

(A) Petitioner's trial lawyer refused to file a motion to quash the arrest of Petitioner and suppress the fruits of the arrest based on the fact that Petitioner was held for six days prior to being brought before a judge for a first appearance and that more than forty-eight (48) hours as prescribed by law for judicial determination of probable cause had long expired before the Petitioner was brought before the Court.

Argument

During the trial in the above cause Petitioner informed his attorney about his detention in various police stations for six (6) days. The Petitioner was not only held for the six (6) days, he was also transferred among three different stations of the Chicago Police Department during the six (6) days. The entirety of this period was spent without the benefit of legal counsel and was also spent without the benefit of consultation with his family.

Petitioner was booked into the custody of the Chicago Police Department at District 009, located at 3501 South Lowe, Chicago, Illinois on 1 October, 1998 at approximately eight o'clock p.m. He was allowed one phone call at eleven p.m. in which he informed his family of his whereabouts. However, later that night at about two a.m. (2 October, 1998), Petitioner was moved to Chicago Police Department District 002 Station, located at 51st and Wentworth, Chicago, Illinois.

The <sup>1st</sup> day after Petitioner's arrest, his family telephoned Chicago Police Department, District 009 - 3501 South Lowe, looking for the Petitioner but was told the Petitioner was not there. District 009 claimed never seeing the Petitioner. Attached to this Memorandum is a copy of an affidavit (See Exhibit 1A) confirming these facts.

Subsequently, on 4 October, 1998, the Petitioner was moved for a second time from the District 002 station to Chicago Police Department District 001 station at 11th and State Streets, Chicago, Illinois. The Petitioner was held at District 001 until he was brought before the Court. He was then moved for the third time and was brought back to Chicago Police Department District 002, located at 51st and Wentworth, Chicago, Illinois.

While the Petitioner was being moved around from one police district station to another, effectively being hidden, he was prevented from talking to his family and from any possibility of securing and consulting with an attorney. Petitioner constantly demanded his right to speak to an attorney but was refused. He was also refused any further contact with his family who could have secured him an attorney.

The Petitioner is contending here that this conduct violates Illinois Statutes 725 ILCS 103-3 and 725 ILCS 5/109-1. This Petitioner also states here that this conduct is in violation of his right to due process of law under the Illinois State Constitution and the United States Constitution.

The Illinois statute provides, among other things, that;

"A person arrested with or without a warrant shall be taken without unnecessary delay before the nearest and most accessible judge in that county".

Furthermore, the due process clause of the United States Constitution requires that all procedures of law at all critical stages of arrest and conviction of a citizen be adhered to. These due process rights are inherent in the 4th Amendment of the United States Constitution made available to the State of Illinois by the 14th Amendment.

Petitioner further informed his counsel that while he was being held incommunicado from his family and legal counsel, the police were buying time to rewrite and amend their reports which then became replete with discrepancy and errors.

The fact here is that Petitioner had been arrested without warrant and was being held in custody without a probable cause determination. As stated, this detention was for a duration of six (6) whole days and is clearly in violation of the United States Supreme Court's holding in County of Riverside v. McLaughlin, 500 U.S. 44, 114 L. Ed. 2d 49, 111 S.Ct. 1161 (1991). There the court stated:

"that the jurisdiction that provides judicial determination of probable cause within 48 hours, will as a general matter, comply with the promptness requirement of Gerstein."

In that case the United States Supreme Court stated also that if the arrested individual could prove that his or her probable cause determination was delayed unreasonably, he will have proved a "Gerstein" violation.

The Petitioner believes that the arresting officers had all the information necessary to file reports in a timely manner; therefor the ability to present the Petitioner to the Court within a timely manner. The fact that the arresting officers did not do so warrants a review of their actions in the six (6) days that the Petitioner spent in detention with the Chicago Police Department.

Secondly, the Chicago Police did not allow the Petitioner to communicate with his family or to secure legal counsel. The fact that the officers of Chicago Police Department, District Station 009, either lied or failed to reveal information to the family of the Petitioner when they telephoned the district looking for the Petitioner also indicates alterior motive; a motive contrary to the rights of the Petitioner and contrary to the due process of law, thereby warranting review.

In these instances the burden is upon the law enforcement officer(s) involved in the detention of the Petitioner to show cause for the six (6) days of detention without the benefit of probable cause determination within, 48 hours as prescribed by law.

Having shown that the Petitioner's right to due process of law has been violated, the Petitioner now asserts here that he alerted his trial attorney to this violation before trial and requested of him to file a motion squashing his arrest based on this violation. The Petitioner's attorney refused to initiate and institute this process at trial even though he had agreed to do so after extensive discussion of this issue. (See Affidavit as Exhibit 27)

This is ineffective assistance of counsel in violation of the Petitioner's Sixth Amendment rights under the United States Constitution - Amendments VI, XIV and in violation of the Petitioner's rights under the Illinois State Constitution - ILL. Const. 1970, Art. 1, Sec.8, Jones v. Barnes, 463 U.S. 745 (1983); Penson v. Ohio, 488 U.S. 75 (1988); People v. Frank, 48 Ill. 2d 500, 272 N.E. 2d 25 (1971).

Counsel's failure to raise any arguable issue on appeal of a case when Petitioner demanded his doing so was found to be ineffective assistance of counsel in Oliver v. United States, 961 F. 2d 1339, 1342 (7th Cir. - 1992). In that case the court found that if the complaint is apparent in the face of the record and the Petitioner had asked that his counsel confront the issue by raising it, that counsel should have done so.

Petitioner here believes that such a scenario is not only applicable on appeal but was also applicable at trial. Therefor, based on this finding, the Court should find the trial attorney as ineffective counsel and in dereliction of his duties as Petitioner's attorney, thereby granting post-conviction relief.

(B) Counsel was ineffective for his failure to highlight the discrepancies in the conduct detailed in police reports concerning the allegation of a specific "Flash Message" reportedly used to assist in the apprehension of the Petitioner. The content of these reports concerning the flash message was in contradiction of facts alleged by victims of the crime as well as on-scene reports of Chicago Police Department R.O.s. Counsel's failure to file for suppression of this alleged perjured information and reports is viewed by the Petitioner as an issue of ineffective counsel.

Argument

The Chicago Police Department case report of on-scene acts and information merely stated that:

"while on Routine Patrol at 5102 South Western, R/O's observed victim's 2,3, and 4 all running from the office at above location. Victims 2 and 3 yelled to R/O's '[Police help! He is in there, he has a gun!]".<sup>2A</sup>
(See Exhibit # 2)

In the arrest report however, the officers wrote the following allegation to justify the arrest of the Petitioner:

"Above subject placed under arrest after A/O's armed with a description via Flash Message from BT. 920 of above vehicle that was just used in an armed robbery and that above subject was observed fleeing from above vehicle. A/O's along with BT. 906 pursued subject on foot, apprehended above subject at above address of arrest. Above subject then positively ID by victims on the scene as an offender in an attempted armed robbery under above R.O. #."
(See Exhibit # 2)

The point of contention here is the allegation of Petitioner being arrested and detained for armed robbery according to the flash message that they claimed the R/Os received. Yet the initial CPD case report, which was written and signed by Officer J. Fudacz (star # 7441) and Officer W. Campbell (star # 5193), which Officer W. Campbell did not sign, did not allege that victims had identified the Defendant as an armed robber.

P/O J. Fudacz did not allege in her report that she sent a message for an armed robbery. Nor did any other police officer testify to ever receiving any flash message from Officer J. Fudacz. More specifically, CPD Sergeant McMurray (star # 1962 - BT. 920) has never testified to receiving any flash message from Officer Fudacz.

It is now clear that the arrest reports were founded on an allegation of armed robbery yet the narration contained within the initial two (2) police reports never mentioned an armed robbery or any type of robbery, thereby failing to connect the Petitioner with such an act.

Moreover, the testimony of the victims on the witness stand at trial during this case confirms that allegations of armed robbery that had been inserted into the arrest reports were false and that they had been fabricated by the police.

(See Trial Transcript page A42 / See Exhibit # A42)

Q: "What happened after you got out the front door?"

A: "Immediately after I exited the building, I headed north, toward 51st and Western, I saw a police car there. I flagged the police car down. I told him there was a guy in there with a gun, he had just shot one of my colleagues."

This is the victim's testimony. The discrepancy found between the police reports and this testimony is that the police reports fail to mention a significant action contained within this testimony: "I told him there was a guy in there with a gun, he had just shot one of my colleagues".

Failure to include this vital aspect of the crime in their reports may seem derelict. Yet the insertion of the two words "armed robbery" into the statements made by the victims which were part of the reports makes the actions of the officers perjurious.

The Petitioner is well aware that this court realizes that perjury is the mortal enemy of justice and with the inclusion of false statements into their official reports the officers committed perjury. These false statements and other allegations, which remain unsubstantiated by the victims of this crime, were intended to highlight the existence of probable cause allowing the arrest of the Petitioner. These allegations and falsehoods also gave opportunity for the police to charge the Petitioner with a greater level offense as opposed to charging the Petitioner simple possession of a firearm or unlawful use of a weapon.

The Petitioner's trial attorney knew about this allegation of armed robbery and knew the facts as stated here by Petitioner. (See Exhibit # E3-4- Opening Statement E3 line 19-24, E4 line 1-2, A10 line 2-5) Petitioner also pointed out this information prior to trial and suggested that his attorney challenge the perjurious information within the reports. After the victim McGee testified regarding the statements he made to Officer Fudacz when he first encountered her, the Petitioner's trial attorney should have pursued the suppression of the police reports and demanded that that attempted armed robbery sections of the reports and statements be expunged. In so doing the Court would have had the opportunity to see if the prosecution could substantiate their charges against the Petitioner without the use of the perjured statements of the officers in their reports. See Franks v. Delaware, 483 U.S. 154, 98 S.Ct. 2674, 576 L.Ed. 2d 667 (1978) and People V. Diaz, 231 Ill. Dec. 523, 696 N.E. 2d 819.

The trial attorney was deficient in his duty for not filing a motion to suppress the evidence based on the perjured information in the arrest report and the indictment of Petitioner. The Petitioner suffered prejudice as a result of the attorney's deficiency in as much as the alleged statement was the nucleus of the instrument used to substantiate the charge of attempted armed robbery.

Again, the Petitioner would like to substantiate his arguments by showing that CPD Officers McDermott and Greenan signed and filed reports of the incident stating:

"Above subject then positively ID by victims on scene as an offender in an attempted armed robbery under above RD #...." Exhibit 1

The supplementary report filed by these officers contained the following statement:

"offender #1 (which was the Petitioner here) was taken to 5102 S. Western and was positively identified by three (3) victims as the subject that displayed and fired a handgun at them." See Exhibit 3

As in aforementioned discrepancies detailed in this argument, the difference between these statements is stratospheric. An attempted armed robbery is very different from the display and firing of a gun. Certainly guns are, at times, involved in armed robbery, yet guns can be involved in domestic disputes, traffic disputes or any other dispute.

The fact that the victims of this crime stood under oath and did not at any time allege that their assailant attempted to rob them is proof of the fact that the police reports were falsified; concocted lies by officers of the Chicago Police Department. The fact that the officers reported two sets of statements is evidence that falsified information, thereby perjuring themselves in at least one of their reports.

Therefore, the trial attorney should have filed a motion to suppress the arrest report on these grounds or the bad information in the arrest reports should have been otherwise expunged by the court upon the motion of counsel. Had counsel done this, the charge of attempted armed robbery for which petitioner was convicted would have been impossible to substantiate per the remaining information in the arrest reports.

For this reason, counsel in this case should be found ineffective in accordance with Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668; 80 L.Ed. 2d 674 and Franks v. Delaware, Supra. For not only did the federal law forbid the use of perjured testimony against a criminal defendant, Illinois law also forbids such an act. For it has long been recognized that a criminal conviction obtained through the knowing use of false testimony is contrary to fundamental principles of fairness in a civilized society and constitutes a violation of due process. People v. Jimerson, 166 Ill. 2d. 211, 223; 209 Ill. Dec. 738; 652 N.E. 2d 278 (1995); People v. Cihlar, 111 Ill. 2d 212, 216-17; 95 Ill. Dec. 297; 489 N.E. 2d 859 (1986).

Such conviction must be set aside if there is any reasonable likelihood that the false testimony could have affected the jury's verdict. United States v.-Bagley, 473 U.S. 667, 678-80; 105 S.Ct. 3375, 3381-82; 87 L. Ed. 2d 481, 492 (1985); People v. Olinger, 176 Ill. 2d 326, 345; 223 Ill Dec. 588; 680 N.E. 2d 321 (1997).

(C) Trial attorney was ineffective in denying the Petitioner the opportunity to testify when Petitioner asked that he be put on the stand to testify.

Argument

During the trial the Petitioner realized that the Judge made a statement in response to his attorney's claim that none of the victims in this case ever testified to the allegation in the charging indictment that the Petitioner ever attempted to rob them. (See Transcript/<sup>Exhibit</sup> Page D14, line 1-16 and D16, line 17-22. The above cited pages and lines reflect conversation about the charge of armed robbery in this case between counsel and the court.

When Petitioner heard the Judge in this case make a statement saying that he thinks the state has proved that the Petitioner had committed an armed robbery on the property, the Judge also called the attention of Petitioner's attorney to again ask the attorney to allow Petitioner to testify as to why he was in that office. At this time, counsel requested and received permission to speak with the Petitioner. During this conversation, counsel refused to allow the Petitioner to testify because he did not think that the State had proven the charge of armed robbery as charged in the indictment against him. Petitioner's attorney then walked toward the center of the court, away from the Petitioner. (See Transcript <sup>Exhibit</sup> D-17, line 2-3)

Mr. Murphy: "All right. One second to speak with my client."

(See Exhibit # 24<sup>b</sup> - supporting affidavit as to this claim)

In light of this fact, counsel is derelict and deficient in his duty for denying Petitioner the right to testify to aid in his own defense and this amounts to a violation of Petitioner's constitutional rights; the Sixth Amendment of the United States Constitution guarantees this right. Strickland v. Washington, Supra. See also People v. Brocksmith, (1994), 162 Ill. 2d. 224; 205 Ill. Dec. 113; 642 N.E. 2d 1230; People v. Anderson, (1994) 266 Ill. App. 3d 947; 204 Ill. Dec. 367; 641 N.E. 2d 591. Each of the above cases are in support of claims by the Petitioner that the ultimate decision of whether to testify at trial is left to the discretion of the petitioner. This discretion was usurped by Petitioner's counsel in that he refused to put him on the stand despite the Petitioner's insistence of his desire to testify in his own defense.

The actions of Petitioner's counsel here prejudiced the Petitioner, leaving the Petitioner exposed to any speculation as to the reason he was present in the office; allowing the police and the court to fill in gaps in the charge of attempted armed robbery with conjecture.

In particular, when Petitioner's counsel rested the case for the defense as part of the plan to pursue and argument on a Motion for Directed Finding, there was no logical or strategic reasoning to do so, other than preventing the Petitioner from testfying on his own behalf, Especially if the Court maintained its position and counsel's argument failed.

(D) The trial court was incorrect in failing to dismiss the indictment by the Grand Jury based on the presence of perjured testimony and its use in obtaining the indictment in violation of Petitioner's due process rights.

Argument

During the trial, Petitioner reviewed a copy of the grand jury indictment and saw that a witness for the state, in the person of Chicago Police Department officer Greenan - Star #19169 had testified to the following:

Grand Jury No: 502, Nov. 30, 1998
Transcript Page 3, Line 21-24 (Exhibit 7)

Q: What did Patterson then do?

A: He proceeded to the rear of the business, he instructed all the employees to lay down and face the floor. Then he attempted to enter the cash drawer.

Transcript Page 5, Line 5-9 (Exhibit 9)

Q: Did Campbell have occasion to see Patterson trying to get the money out of the drawer?

A: Yes, he did.

Transcript Page 7, Line 17-24 (Exhibit 10)

Q: Did a citizen named Ruiz have occasion to see what happened to Patterson's original clothing and to his handgun?

A: Yes, he did.

Q: What did Patterson do with his original clothes and the handgun?

A: He was disposing of the handgun and his clothes in a trash can in the alley.

Based on the above testimony, Officer Greenan clearly committed perjury in his answers to these questions, as the only possible evidence in the record that he could have been speaking truthfully of was the Case Report, which reads as follows:

"[While on Routine Patrol at 5102 South Western, R/Os observed victims 2, 3 & 4 all running from the office at above location. Victims 2 & 3 yelled to R/Os "Police Help!, He's in there. He has a gun." R/O Campbell entered the office through the front as R/O Fudacz headed towards the rear of the location. As PO Campbell entered the office, offender #1 was standing in the rear of the office rummaging through a desk. Offender #1 was holding a blue steel revolver. Offender #1 looked up towards R/O Campbell and fled witht he gun in his right hand through the rear door of the office.....]"

(See Exhibit #~~2-2A~~)

This is the officers own report stating that victims were outside the building even before they knew of any crime in this case. This case report also proves that the Petitioner was alone in the building when Officer Campbell entered the office. So why would Officer Greenan testify falsely, as he did before the Grand Jury, if the revealed otherwise? The officer simply, to put it in a layman's words, lied. And he did so with reckless disregard for the truth. Officer Greenan had the case report at his disposal when he went before the Grand Jury. He read the report and he knew what it's contents were, yet he decided to attempt to sway the jury in an attempt to secure an indictment.

Secondly, in reviewing at the testimony quoted on page 5, line 5-9, which represent Officer Greenan's response to questions from the State, Officer Greenan again lied before the Grand Jury when he testified in response to the state's question in saying that Officers Campbell and another officer on the scene saw Patterson trying to get money out of the drawer.

During the trial on cross-examination of Officer Campbell, Officer Campbell admitted to the following:

Transcript Page B-15, Line 15-24 (see exhibit B-15 line 15-24)

Q: When he fled out the back door am I correct or maybe I'm incorrect, did you see him with a bag?

A: Yes. He had -- well I thought it was a case but it turned out to be a bag.

Q: You could not actually see the drawer that you say that he was rummaging in, is that right?

A: When I first walked in, no I couldn't see it.

Now, these questions and answers were predicated on the earlier testimony of Officer Campbell before the Court; that as soon as he entered the building, he saw Petitioner rummaging through a drawer to take some money. This statement or inference was what Officer Greenan also tried to testify to when he said that Officer Campbell saw the Petitioner attempting to enter the cash drawer.

First, a photographic picture of Officer Campbell's vantage point on the scene of the crime was presented at trial in an attempt to resolve and/or rebuke his testimony that he was able to see the Petitioner upon entering the office, rummaging through the drawer. The photograph indicated that it was impossible for the officer to observe the events on scene as he had testified.

It is then clear that the testimony of this Officer before the Grand Jury, that Patterson was seen attempting to enter a cash drawer, was a lie.

However, the testimony of all of the victims at trial refuted the testimony of these officers, specifically that the Petitioner was looking for money when he came upon them.

Also, on Page 5 of the transcript of Grand Jury testimony, in lines 5-8, Officer Greenan again lied when asked if he had occasion to see Patterson trying to get money out of the drawer. Officer Greenan said, "Yes. I did." This was another lie used to highlight or clarify the charge of attempted armed robbery so the state could use the grand jury as a rubber stamp for their indictment against the Petitioner.

As the above argument reveals that Officer Campbell never saw Mr. Patterson in any act as testified to and that Mr. Patterson did not ever take money from the drawer, it was never established at trial that money was even present in a particular drawer in that desk or that the drawer referred to in Officer Campbell's testimony contained any money. According to photographs displayed at trial, there are seven, or at least seven, drawers in that desk.

In Officer Greenan's testimony, on Page 7 of the grand jury transcript, the Petitioner finds another false statement(s) that was used to secure the indictment.

Officer Greenan testified to a citizen by the name of Ruiz who allegedly saw Mr. Patterson dumping his clothing and a handgun into a trash can found in the alley.

Mr. Ruiz testified on the stand at trial that Mr. Patterson's co-defendant (this co-defendant was exonerated on all charges) was the person whom he saw throw a bag into the garbage can. According to this testimony, Mr. Patterson was on 50th Street at this time, no where near the particular garbage dumpster which was located in the alley off of 50th Street.

(See Transcript Page D-8, Line 2-7) (Exh. b/c D-8)

Q: Which of the two men was by 50th Street?

A: The tallest one. I don't know his name.

Q: And then the man near the alley would be the other man you have identified as Mr. Akbar?

A: Yes, he is the one who asked me for the water.

(Please note here that Mr. Patterson is referred to as the tallest)

Q: Before you saw the defendant Akbar lock the car, did you see him do anything else?

A: (Through the interpreter): Oh, yes. He threw a bag. I don't know what it was but he threw it inside the garbage can.

According to the above testimony, it is clear from the Grand Jury Transcript of the indictment that the Petitioner has again been made the victim of false statements by police officers involved in this case. Officer Greenan testified that Mr. Ruiz saw Mr. Patterson throw a bag into the garbage can.

This false testimony was used to assist the state in their inference that Mr. Patterson was trying to discard the evidence of an attempted armed robbery.

This act of making false statements was not only perjurious it was also A conspiracy by the state to set up a malicious prosecution of a citizen, as the State knew from the start of the testimony that Mr. Ruiz did not see Mr. Patterson throw any bag away. The State knew that Mr. Ruiz would not testify at trial that Mr. Patterson was the person he saw throwing a bag into the garbage, they simply used that lie to gussy-up their inferences in order to secure the indictment; a wrongful indictment, an indictment which the state secured for a crime that was not committed by any means necessary.

Obtaining an indictment through false testimony is akin to obtaining a conviction through incorrect testimony. For once the indictment is authorized by the grand jury, the prosecution is validated and the citizen's liberty is thence at risk. The indictment kick starts the conviction process.

Therefore, it has long been recognized that a criminal conviction obtained through the knowing use of false testimony is contrary to fundamental principles of fairness in a civilized society and constitutes a violation of due process. People v. Jimerson, 166 Ill. 2d 211, 223; 209 Ill. Dec. 738; 652 N.E. 2d 278 (1995). People v. Cihlar, 111 Ill. 2d 212, 216-17; 95 Ill. Dec. 297; 489 N.E. 2d 859. Napue v. Illinois, 360 U.S. 264; 79 S.Ct. 1173; 3 L.Ed. 2d 1217 (1959).

Such a conviction must be set aside if there is any reasonable likelihood that the false testimony could have affected the jury's verdict. United States v. Bagley, 473 U.S. 667, 678-80; 105 S.Ct. 3375, 3381-82; 87 L.Ed. 2d 481, 492 (1985); People v. Ohlinger, 176 Ill. 2d 326, 345; 223 Ill. Dec. 588; 680 N.E. 2d 321 (1997).

This court should assume with all due respect to the grand jury members, that they are not stupid. That without the lies and false statements that were integral parts of the testimony of state's witnesses in this case, that the grand jury would not have and could not have authorized the indictment of the Petitioner for attempted armed robbery in this case.

The main issue here is that absent the perjured testimony, there is not sufficient proof that an alleged armed robbery occurred and without sufficient proof the grand jury cannot indict the Petitioner in this case.

Had the Petitioner's attorney filed a motion to have the indictment thrown out based on these reasons at trial, the Petitioner believes that the court would have seen fit to do so based on the record.

The failure of the Petitioner's attorney to file for a dismissal of the indictment along with his motion for arrest of judgment on this issue is a grievous error that caused prejudice against the Petitioner in this case.

Petitioner is hereby requesting this court to find that his counsel was deficient in his duty and that the deficiency has prejudiced the Petitioner. Therefore, he is asking that this court reverse his conviction and re-visit these issues on appeal for proper adjudication according to fundamental fairness and the rule of law.

(2) The Appellate Attorney was ineffective as counsel on five grounds:

(A) For not consulting with Petitioner in any way or form before filing an appellate brief on direct appeal of this case.

Argument

After the Petitioner was sentenced to eighteen (18) years in prison and before the appeal of this case the Petitioner filed a Late Notice of Appeal on March-29, 2002. The Petitioner embarked on this action because his trial attorney did not ever inform the Petitioner that he had filed a Notice of Appeal two days after his sentencing on February 4, 2002.

The Appellate Court of the First District returned the Late Notice of Appeal filed by the Petitioner on April 4, 2002, informing him that he had no need to file a late notice as his appointed counsel had properly and timely filed a notice of appeal.

Even though Petitioner was represented at trial by a paid attorney, he indicated to the trial court, at sentencing, that his resources to further retain an attorney had diminished. The trial court agreed and stated that it would appoint an attorney for the Petitioner to prosecute the appeal. (See transcript/Exhibit

I Line 11-24)

Thereby, from the day the Court made this pronouncement, the Petitioner waited for the Office of the Public Defender to notify him of the appointment of counsel and to identify counsel.

The First District Court then sent correspondence to the Petitioner indicating that his Notice of Appeal had been filed as well as directing the Petitioner to contact the Office of the Public Defender to find out any further information.

(See Exhibit # 13) The Petitioner then promptly, on the date of receipt of this correspondence, called the Office of the Public Defender.

However, this first call yielded no results as the Petitioner was informed that the head of the appeals division was on vacation and would not be back in the office until two weeks.

Two weeks later the Petitioner again called the public defender's office and was informed that their office had not received the record in his case and that the office would not appoint a counsel until they received that record. During this call the Petitioner informed the lead counsel of the appeals division of the public defender's office that he wanted them to file for an appeal bond. The head of the department took issue with the idea. He did not want to do what the Petitioner had requested. Whereby the Petitioner informed the head of the appeals division that he would have to file the request for an appeal bond Pro Se if it were to much of a job for the public defender's office. At this point the gentleman agreed promptly telling the Petitioner to send the office a copy of the request as soon as he had filed one.

However, this gentleman failed to inform the Petitioner that the Circuit had made a decision to not accept Pro Se Petitions from criminal defendants who are actively represented by counsel. The Petitioner asserts that this failure was based on the fact that the gentleman did not want to file an appeal bond request for the Petitioner.

On July 22, 2002, the Pro Se motion was denied consideration and a letter was sent to the Petitioner, from the public defender's office, indicating this denial and introducing appellate counsel. (See Exhibit # 13) Until this letter, Petitioner had not been introduced to the attorney that would handle his case. Again he had been told that the office was waiting for receipt of the record before the appointment of appellate counsel.

On August 7, 2002 the Petitioner then filed a complaint against the head of the appellate division of the public defender's office with Rita A. Fry, the director of the public defender's office for Cook County. Until this complaint was filed a specific attorney had not been identified to the Petitioner as appellate counsel. (See Exhibit # 17-) 17A

On August 15, 2002, over seven months after the Court had delivered the Petitioner's case to the appellate division of the public defender's office, Rita Fry directed the Petitioner's complaint for a follow-up investigation to Lauren B. Simon, who at that time was supervisor of James Reddy. Evidently until Rita Fry's office delivered the case to Lauren B. Simon, nobody had been appointed to handle the case. (See Exhibit # 18-,) Also see exhibit 18A

Now, four (4) days after Ms. Fry delivered the case to Lauren B. Simon for investigation, Emily Eisner, of the appellate division of the public defender's office, sent a letter to Mr. Patterson informing him of her appointment as the counsel of record for his appeal and of her intent to file a brief in a week's time. (See Exhibit # 19 - the court will notice in the Exhibit the date as August 19, 2002-)

Petitioner, upon receipt of this letter, immediately called the public defender's office. The office informed the Petitioner that attorneys return to the office each day around 2 p.m. and that Petitioner should call back at that time. The Petitioner made repeated attempts to contact Ms. Eisner by telephone, at the specified time of 2 p.m., but was not able to reach Ms. Eisner until approximately two (2) weeks later.

However, the very day after the Petitioner received the letter of introduction from counsel, he received another letter. This letter was accompanied by an opening brief for his case which had been filed by counsel. Yet most of the issues which the Petitioner had identified as points of error, points for counsel to confront in this brief, were missing from the brief. (See Exhibit # 21)

The Petitioner then sent his appellate counsel correspondence advising her of his disagreement with the content of the brief and her failure to consult with the Petitioner prior to filing the brief. (SEE EXHIBIT 22)

This disagreement became a heated argument between Petitioner and Counsel but there was not an avenue for the Petitioner, at that time, to redress the mistakes of his appellate counsel for two reasons:

- (1) Petitioner believed he could not file another brief as it was clear that the brief would not be accepted by the appellate court. That it would be simply labelled as hybrid representation as had been done with his Pro Se Motion for Appeal Bond; and
- (2) the Petitioner was not admonished by Appellate Counsel that the Petitioner could amend the brief in accordance with S.Ct. Rule 362 as a statutory right.

Finally, the counsel of record would not cooperate to advise the Petitioner as to a method to proceed on those issues. She simply refused to include or work on anything other than the issues she raised ~~in~~ the brief, slamming the phone down, hanging-up with the Petitioner during this heated argument.

The actions of Counsel, in this regard by not consulting with the Petitioner before filing the appeal brief, were contrary to his duty and function as counsel and assistant to the defendant; to advocate the cause of the defendant and more particular duties to consult with defendant on important decisions and to keep defendant informed of important developments in the course of the prosecution.

U.S.C.A. Const. Amend. 6.

The counsel's conduct here so undermined the proper functioning of the adversarial process that the results of the appeal were completely unreliable. The issues that could have been raised and confronted, issues which would have resulted in a reversal of Petitioner's conviction, were left out of the arguments.

More importantly, counsel should have argued the insufficiency of the indictment which was used to convict the Petitioner as a matter of law instead of the frivolous argument she presented basing that issue on evidence. This frivolous argument ended up running the appeal into a wall, eliminating any possibility of success.

The fact on this matter, was that a motion for an arrest of judgment was made during the trial, based on the sufficiency of the indictment. Yet, counsel acted in a manner which was contrary to the fact and did not raise or argue the sufficiency of the indictment as a matter of law and fact. This appears in the record. Instead, she proceeded to argue the same argument which the public defender's office uses in many of the cases they present on appeal for indigent clients. "The sufficiency of the evidence to sustain the conviction." This is an argument that the office of the public defender, and more importantly defendants, lose ninety percent of the time.

The sufficiency of the indictment in this case was the heart of the matter. The perjured or false statements contained in the indictment were fact as testified to at trial by victims of the crime and this should have been a primary issue to confront or argue on appeal. Instead, this issue was neglected and a frivolous issue was raised on behalf of the Petitioner, by his counsel, on appeal.

Appellate Counsel was a contractor, appointed by the State, at the request of the Petitioner, to do an effective job. Thus, this begs the question of why a contractor (counsel) would fail to contact the contractee (Petitioner) prior to embarkation on a project contracted upon (the appeal).

The accused are entitled to assistance of counsel, whether retained or appointed, and this counsel plays a role necessary to ensure that the trial and all other proceedings are fair. This language, of course, is applicable to all aspects of the appeals process.

The role of counsel is to assist a convicted felon in the appeal process. At minimum, counsel could and should have consulted with the Defendant on which issues to raise and confront, hearing out the client's opinions. Strickland, at least demanded so. Strickland v. Washington, 104 S.Ct. 2052 at 2063 (1984); Geders v. United States, 425 U.S. 80, 96 S.Ct. 1330, 47 L.Ed. 2d 592 (1976) - (bar on attorney-client consultation during overnight recess was ineffective).

The counsel refusal to consult with petitioner in this case before embarking on the appeal itself in this case prejudiced the defendant that no further prejudice is required to be shown by petitioner. One of the most important duty of counsel is to consult with his or her client and provide effective "legal assistance" and in this regard, logic dictates that the failure to consult with petitioner was completely unreasonable.

However, petitioner states here that had the attorney consulted with him, he would have pointed out to her that the motion for arrest of judgment that was filed by counsel at trial was predicated on the sufficiency of the indictment. He would have further explained to the attorney that the arguments should be made that the indictment itself contained perjured testimony and was therefore invalid and that if the perjured information was taken out of the indictment, the indictment will be contrary to petitioners conviction and the conviction cannot therefore stand. (See argument B under trial counsel's ineffective claim.)

B. Appellate attorney was ineffective for failure to raise an ineffective assistance of trial counsel claim based on the claims presented in this Petition under Argument one (1) A,B,C, and D.

Again, because appellate counsel fail to consult with petitioner before embarking on the appeal, she has failed to argue the issues to which petitioner claim here that his trial counsel was ineffective for.

Had counsel consult<sup>d</sup> with the petitioner she would have highlighted this issues for him and the discussion will only be on whether she will agree to raise them or not. Here, counsel did not even give petitioner any chance of consultation on those issues and based on that, no strategy on appeal could be said to have been followed by counsel here other than neglect of her duty to consult with her client which resulted in the neglect of those claims discussed here.

The fact here is that counsel's conduct here seriously undermined the proper functioning of the adversarial process so that the appeal cannot be relied on as having produced a just affirmance.

The merit of the issues petitioner's counsel should have argued here is apparent on the face of the record. ( See argument under trial counsel's ineffective claim.)

Strickland, dictates that counsel present arguable issues on appeal of a conviction in as much as the issue is not frivolous or in as much as it appears to have merit in the face of the record. Strickland, supra, counsel in this case failed to provide reasonable assistance of counsel to petitioner for her failure to consult with petitioner and her failure to present those meritorious argueable issues on petitioners appeal. see Trapnell v. United States, 725 F.2d at 151-152.

The Sixth Amendment refers specifically to counsel's duty as one of consultation with his client in every critical stage of the conviction. Petitioner's counsel failed in this regard as previously argued in (a) part of this argument. Had petitioner presented the argument here under the trial counsel's ineffectiveness, most especially the failure of trial counsel to file a motion to quash the arrest of petitioner and suppress the fruit of the arrest based on the fact that petitioner was held in police custody for six days before appearing before a magistrate judge for determination of probable cause in violation of both Illinois law and the federal constitution, the result of the appeal would have been different.

So would the other remaining issues claimed under the trial counsel's ineffective representation, would have changed the outcome of the appeal had those issues been briefed on that appeal.

Based on the above fact and under the rule of Strickland, supra, this court should find prejudice and find counsel ineffective thereby allowing petitioner to re-prosecute the appeal. However, in the interest of preserving judicial resources, this court should visit the record de-novo and decide the merit of the complaint here presented by petitioner.

(C) Appellate attorney was ineffective for not arguing in her appellate brief that the indictment charging petitioner for the commission of the crime in this case consist of perjured testimony and that it is insufficient to support the conviction.

Again, petitioner maintains here first that attorney's deliberate mistake for not consulting with petitioner before sending in the first brief on the appeal of this case resulted in the error of the omission of this argument in the brief on appeal. This error therefore constituted a violation of petitioner's Sixth Amendment Rights. However, petitioner will hereby use the record as presented at trial and the indictment itself to show that the indictment consisted of perjured testimony and that without this perjured testimony, the indictment did not allege the crime for which petitioner was later convicted.

The indictment stated as follows:

Kevin Patterson (as the only person of relevance) committed the offense of attempt armed robbery in that, "They with the intent to commit the offense of armed robbery by threatening the imminent use of force and while armed with a dangerous weapon, to wit: A gun, did Any act, to wit: Attempted to remove united states currency from the person of Clarence Beals which constituted a substantial step towards the commission of the offense of armed robbery in violation of chapter 720, Act 5, Section 8-4 (720-5/18-2) of the Illinois Compiled Statutes 1992, as Amended, and .... (See exhibit 11 )

According to the language of this indictment, the state charged and convicted petitioner for "attempted armed robbery by attempting to remove United States currency from the person of Clarence Beals".

However, here are the statements and testimony as appeared in the record.

Transcript A-26 Lines 17-24, and A-27 lines 1-15.

Question:

"You testified here today that he said -- someone was asking him why he was there or what he was doing and you said here to here today that he brought up some philosophical concerns he had about money, is that correct?"

Answer: "More so about people, in terms of poor people and money."

Q: "He never said to you that he was there to rob you, did he?"

A: "No".

Q: "He never said to you or anyone else in the back, back of the office that he wanted your money or their money, is that correct ?"

A: "That's correct."

Q: "he never attempted to take any money - I don't know if you had any moncy on you, but he never attempted to take anything from you personally did he ?"

A: "No!"

Q: "Same question of the other two people that were in the back of the office. Did he attempt to take anything from them?"

A: "No Sir."

On page. A-58 lines 12-16, states witness Tim Jones stated on cross examination:

Q: "When Mr. Patterson got to the location where you were seated which is before you get to the rear door, did he tell you to give him the money that was in the desk drawer ?"

A: "No," "He didn't ask me about the money." (See exhibit A-58)

Based on the above facts from the record, Mr. Clarence Beals who was the focus of one of the indictments in this case for the alleged attempt armed robbery And one of the person(s) whom the petitioner was charged for attempting to take money from his person and Tim Jones who stated he placed money in a desk drawer denied any such act. They emphatically said "No", nothing like that happened to anyone in that office at the time of the incident. Whether the attempt to rob was directed at them or their place of business, they Said "No" to the act that allegedly constituted the "substantial step" to the commission of the offense of attempt armed robbery as charged in the indictment.' (See exhibit A26-27,A58). Equally important to this matter is the testimony of Felise McGee who was synonymously one of the victims of this incident.

Here is his words: (exhibit/transcript A-42 lines 2-8)

Q: "What happened after you got out the front door?"

A: "Immediately after I exited the building I headed north toward 51st and Western. I saw a police car there. I flagged the police car down. I told him there was a guy in there with a gun, he had just shot one of my colleagues."

Here again, Mr. Felise McGee did not allege that petitioner came to rob them for if it was so, he would have told the officer in the patrol car that he and his colleagues were being robbed, and the robber shot one of his colleagues.

The record is devoid of any witness, i-e, the victims of this crime, testifying at any time that petitioner came to rob them.

It is clear that the police officers in this case inserted the accusation of robbery, and proceeded on the line of argument that money was kept in that office and used the unexplained confrontation between the petitioner and the victims as a pretext upon which to base the allegation of the attempt armed robbery offense. It is also evident from the record that the state knew that the indictment and charge of attempt armed robbery against petitioner was false. Why this conclusion? The record clearly reflects that the state charged petitioner with "attempting to remove U.S. Currency from the person(s) of " the alleged victims" in the indictment. At trial, the state put the alleged victims on the stand but never asked them if petitioner attempted to rob them. In fact, the state never questioned them about any attempted robbery of them or their place of business by the petitioner.

This in it self shows that the state engaged in "malicious prosecution" of petitioner. It shows the state knew that the attempted armed robbery against petitioner as outlined in the record and pled in the indictment was false but the state nonetheless proceeded to charge and prosecute the petitioner for it contrary to chapter 720, act 5, Section 8-4 (720 ILCS 5/18-2) of the Illinois Compiled Statutes, 1992, as amended. 210 Key 56 Law under indictment and information in the state of Illinois stated that "... a statute cannot dispense with a statement in the indictment of the essential elements of the crime charged, but it may provide that the property which is the subject of the crime may be described by general words.

Under 210 Key 110(2) most cited cases.

"As a rule, a statutory offense is sufficiently charged in substantially the language of the statute, though the indictment must, by statutory description or other apt words, so identify the offense as to meet the requirements of S.H.A. Const. Bill of rights §9, giving accused the right to demand the nature and cause of the accusation."

Based on the languages of the two statutes quoted above, the language of the indictment in petitioner's case here did not identify the offense for which the victims testified to that petitioner has committed against them.

Victim Mr. Clarence Beals in his own words stated under oath on the witness stand as shown above that the petitioner was not in that office to rob him. He was there for a philosophical reason.

This fact is also buttress by the appellate court's statement in it's opinion in the "Order of June 19, 2003, on the appeal of this case. On page three of that order, the court acknowledge the fact that Beals testified that his two colleagues asked defendant why he was there and defendant said "he was there because of some philosophical reason; something about money and poor people.

Nothing in the testimony in the record that supports the charge of attempt armed robbery for which petitioner was indicted for. The record was quite the contrary. A philosophical reason about money and poor people may mean that some poor people's money had been taken by the people in that office and petitioner was there to see that problem resolved. It did not in any way support a finding or even give inference of an attempt armed robbery by petitioner.

Therefore, the charge of attempt armed robbery in the indictment here in this case is false and perjury at best by the charging officers. Therefore, the indictment as a whole should be dismissed with prejudice. Because it violates the statutes mentioned above, that is, 210 key 56 and 210 key 110(2) of the indictment and information. See People v. Clark, 256 Ill. 14, 99 N.E. 866.

The dismissal must also be with prejudice because bringing a new indictment will simply violate petitioner's right based on the double jeopardy clause of the U.S. Constitution.

(D) Appellate attorney was ineffective for failure to raise "plain error" by trial court in it's finding where the allegation by the victims in the record did not support the indictment and the evidence at trial did not support the indictment.

During the trial and at the conclusion of the state's case defense counsel moved and argued a motion for directed finding. At the conclusion of that argument the court stated:

" I have pretty much heard the evidence. I believe based on the evidence that I heard that Kevin Patterson went there, like Robinhood to rob from someone he disagreed with, to maybe it wasn't for his own personal use but he went there to rob this place and did in fact take a substantial step towards that by not getting any proceeds. But he went there armed with a 38.

They prove to me beyond a reasonable doubt that Kevin Patterson is guilty of attempt armed robbery, three counts and felony possession of a weapon based on a prior a armed robbery conviction and him being armed with that 38. I certainly believe that an aggravating feature is the discharge of this gun during the course of this, what I believe, is an armed robbery.

Certainly the specific intent was to commit armed robbery and a substantial step was taken. The only thing missing was proceeds and certainly the armed robbery was done in the presence of the three individuals who are named as victims." ( See transcript/exhibit D 24-25 ).

Certainly, the court's opinion was completely erroneously based on the testimony in the record. First, the court committed "Plain Error" when in his finding he stated:

"....but he went there to rob this place and did in fact take a substantial step towards that by not getting any proceeds"...

The court used the alleged failure it self to complete the robbery as an element of proof of the charge of attempt armed robbery. Not the substantial step of the act!

"Attempt to remove United State's Currency from the person of....

As the indictment alleges. (See exhibit 11). Through out the courts summation the court never states what constitutes the substantial step element of the charge of "attempt". Less-more the court never stated what act performed by the petitioner constituted the substantial step of attempting to remove U.S. currency from any person as stated in the indictment when the alleged victims stated no attempt was made to take U.S. currency from them or their place of business.

It is very clear from the record in this case that the court was going off of petitioner's record to arrive at this conclusion of attempted armed robbery as the court so alluded to in his opinion. ( See lines 7 thru. 11, page D-25 )

"..... They proved to me beyond reasonable doubt that Kevin Patterson is guilty of attempt armed robbery, three counts, and felony possession of a weapon (based on) a prior armed robbery conviction ....."

This statement by the court alone is so prejudicial as to question the integrity of the fairness of the court's conclusion. It bears on the core of the judge's finding that petitioner committed the offense of attempt armed robbery regardless of what the facts in the record were. However, the facts negate the finding of the court. As the record reflects through the testimony of the victims themselves that petitioner did not at anytime announce any intention of committing as armed robbery. Testimony also reflects from the record that the petitioner never took or attempted to take any money from the person(s) or in the presence of the alleged victims as the court stated because the alleged victims never brought or validated the charge(s) of attempt armed robbery as stated by the police and charged by the state. Appellate counsel's failure to raise "Plain Error" by the trial court under an insufficiency of indictment claim prejudiced petitioner on appeal. For as the indictment charged.

"Kevin Patterson committed the offense of attempt armed robbery in that they, with the intent to commit the offense of armed robbery by threatening the imminent use of force and while armed with a dangerous weapon to wit: a gun, did any act to wit: attempted to remove United States Currency from the person of ..... which constituted a substantial step towards the commission of the offense of armed robbery in violation of Chapter 720 Act.5 Section 8-4 (720-5/18-2) of the Illinois Compiled Statutes, 1992.....

The charging instrument as stated herein requires that petitioner be found as a matter of fact to support the law, to have attempted to take money from the person(s) of Clarence Beals, Felise McGee and Tim Jones. This is the act required by law the state had to prove at trial to support any determination of petitioner having committed the offense as charged. However, it is this act that the record is devoid of. As the record reflects that the victims categorically stated that the petitioner did not attempt to take or remove anything from them. As they stated:

Q: "He never said to you that he was there to rob you did did he ?"

A: "No"

Q: "He never said to you or anyone else in the back, back of the office that he wanted your your money or their money is that correct ?"

A: "That's Correct."

Q: "He never attempted to take money....I don't know if you had any money on you, but he never attempted to take anything from you personally did he ?"

A: "No"

Q: "Same question of the other two people that were in the back of the office. Did he attempt to take anything from them ?"

A: "No Sir."

(See Transcript/exhibit A27-28)

(See also Tim Jones testified)

Q: " when Mr. Patterson got to the location where you were seated, which is before you get to the rear door, did he tell you to give him the money that was in the desk drawer ?"

A: "No, he didn't ask me about the money.

(See transcript/exhibit A-58)

Besides all these facts, there is also the testimony of Felise McGee as the record reflects he stated that he (Felise McGee) ran out of the office building and approached the patrol officer(s) and told them that:

"There is a man inside with a gun and he has just shot one of my colleagues" (See transcript/exhibit A-42)

The fact of the matter here is that the arresting officers charged petitioner with a crime and based that charge on information from the victims that was never stated, alleged or supported.

The state followed through on that charge by using the same police officer who submitted this allegation as a witness before the grand jury who through his testimony, mislead the grand jury by insinuating that the alleged victims could/would testify that petitioner attempted to rob them by attempting to enter a cash drawer while holding them at gun point in their place of business and this attempt was done "in their presence."

(See Grand Jury Transcript exhibit 74.22-24).

Therefore looking in the face of record, the indictment is insufficient to support the record, and the evidence at trial did not support the indictment which rendered the indictment insufficient. The allegation of attempt armed robbery not alleged by the victim(s) to support the indictment because the victims allegation (for attempt armed robbery) did not form the core of the indictment but rather the allegation contained in the indictment was a charge created by the police and the trial court should have accepted the testimony of the victim as to the specific act of the crime and base it's finding accordingly rather than on speculation and conjecture.

Therefore, petitioner asserts that the trial court committed "Plain Error" as a matter of law in relation to the evidence in the record on this case. See People v. Young, 128 Ill.2d 1, 131 Ill.Dec. 78, 538 N.E.2d 453. Plain Error as a rule is applied in criminal cases where the evidence is closely balanced or the error is of such magnitude that it's commission denies the accused a fair and impartial trial Young, 128 Ill.2d at 47, 131 Ill.Dec. 78, 538 N.E.2d 453. In light of this, petitioner asked this court to reverse the conviction.

(E) Appellate Attorney was ineffective for failure to raise the claim that the trial court erred in it's ruling on the Insufficiency of Indictment claim raised during trial by defense counsel in the Motion for Directed Finding and after trial in the motion in arrest of judgement where the trial court based it's finding solely on evidence at trial rather than on a question of law.

During trial and at the conclusion of the state's case counsel for the defense stated:

"On behalf of my client, Judge I would be moving at this time for a directed finding of not guilty".....

Counsel moved in numerical order of the indictments from count to count until getting to the attempt armed robbery counts.

(See D-15, line 22) when counsel stated:

Mr. Murphy: "Attempt armed robbery's count 3. and I wish to argue."

The court then stated:

The court: "Well, you can argue in the light most favorable to the state. At this time I believe they prove an armed robbery."

Counsel proceeded to argue based on the court's assertion of an armed robbery that nothing was taken. (See exhibit D-15-16)

ONce counsel began to argue counsel stated"

"Judge, during the course of the trial when Mr. Deals was on the witness stand I asked him on cross examination a question. I asked him the following questions and he gave the following answer. I am speaking of Patterson."

"He never said to you or any one else in the back of the office that he wanted your money or their money, is that correct ?"

"He never attempted to take money .... I don't know if you had any money on you .... but he never attempted to take anything from you personally, did he ? "No." "I then said same question of the other two people that were in the back of the office. "Did he attempt to take anything form them ?" "No"Sir."

My client is charge in three of the counts with attempt armed robbery. In regard to the way the charging documents read, count(s) 3, it allege's that my client while armed with a hand gun, attempted to remove United States Currency from the person of .....( See indictment exhibit 11)

Counsel then begin to outline question's and answers from each of the alleged victim's of the attempt armed robbery charges.

(See transcript D-19 line 14-24)

Counsel then stated in his argument:

"The prosecution's theory in this case as I now understand it, is that my client was trying to take United States Currency that was in a drawer but not from the person of any person who was in the business premises!"

"The prosecution's theory is that my client was bending over when the officer came in and was rammaging around in a desk drawer. Well you now know and the officer had conceded, that he couldn't see my client's hand in any drawer because he was looking at the wrong side of the desk".....

Counsel further argued:

"The charging document was very specific in what it alleged in regard to the offense of attempt armed robbery, it alleges he was attempting to take property from the person of three different individuals that were present and there is not one scintilla of evidence to support that that is what he did. Indeed the prosecution---- very briefly, at the risk of repeating myself---- will argue to you he was there to take the currency from connections, an Entity not a person" (See transcript/exhibit D-20-21)

In the state's rebuttal argument the following exchange occurred between the court and the state"

Court
The: "Okay, How about part of counsel's argument where it charges specifically attempted to remove united states currency from the person without the added word or presence of Clarence Beal, Timmy Jones, Felise McGee?"

Ms. Dillon: "Judge I believe the case law supports the fact taking from something from the presence of someone. It doesn't have to be exactly on the person ."

The court: "He is charged with "from the person".

Ms. Kuruc: "Well, on the person, The case law as well would".

The court: "Include presence ?"

Mr. Dillon: "Yes".

The Court: "On the persons or in their persence?".

Ms. Dillon: "That's correct. and case law".

The Court: "You are secure in that these charging documents are sufficient to support the fact's as testified to in this case".

Ms. Dillon: "Yes judge". (see exhibit D-23-24)

At the end of the states argument the court ruled summarily stating:

The court: "I have pretty much heard the evidence. I believe based on the evidence that I heard that Kevin Patterson went there like Robinhood to rob someone he disagreed with, to maybe it wasn't for his own personal use, but he went there to rob this place and did in fact take a substantial step towards that by not getting any proceeds"

The court further stated: "Certainly the specific intent was to commit armed robbery and a substantial step was taken.
The only thing missing was the proceeds and certainly the armed robbery was done in the presence of the three individuals who are named as victims." (see exhibit D-25 line(s) 15-19)

Thus the motion for directed finding was denied and petitioner was found guilty of attempt armed robbery subsequently, the petitioner was taken into custody and the sentencing hearing was continued until December 19th, 2001. On that day, trial counsel filed a motion in arrest of judgement (See exhibit E-2)

During argument on said motion defense counsel stated: Mr. Murphy: "I was unwilling to concede that the prosecution could establish other matters which were set forth the way that they were pled. (See exhibit E-2 lines 23-24, E-3 lines 1-5.)

Counsel further stated: "In this case, Mr. Patterson's case, the way the indictment was formed it's alleged little my client purportedly took or attempted I should say to take money from the presence of the three named individuals who testified. The state elected for reason's I would not know, not to include in the charging document that this attempt was done merely in the presence of those three people. What I did is I relied upon the charging document in the preparation of my defense. I relied upon the fact that I did not believe that the prosecution could establish that my client attempted to take property from these three named individuals. Now the way the case developed, the way the testimony came out, I did ask those three named individuals when they would testify if my client ever attempted. Commanded or directed them to give property to him; and, of course, they agreed with what I thought was going to be their obvious answer, having read the police reports, that my client never did that. In sum what I did is, I relied upon that charging document. I did not ask for a 402 conference in this particular case because I believed the prosecution had confined themselves to proof that would show, if they could do it, that my client sought to take property from those people. The evidence did not support that theory.

Mr. Patterson and his attorney relied upon it. It's not being raised for the first time on appeal. It was raised at at trial and it's being reviewed again at this juncture of the proceeding in post trial fashion.

I believe that there is a fatal variance and that Mr. Patterson, the defendant, is entitled to the benefit of the doubt where it exist. It does exist ". ( See exhibit E-2, line 23-24, E-3 line 1-24 E-4, line 1-18.)

The court interrupted the state's argument injecting it's summation and ruling stating: The Court: "Well, I think I made my position pretty clear on this. Not only did he attempt, I think he completed the armed robbery....." (See E-4, line 20-24) The court further stated: "All the elements of an armed robbery was proven except that he didn't get away with the proceeds. It's clear to me that if this is the law in the United States of America that's a joke...." (See exhibit E-5, Line 5-14.)

And in the court's ruling he stated: " There's no question about his guilt. You citing me that this case is paramount to you saying that if in fact somebody comes up to somebody with a gun and then turns their back maybe and it's outside their presence, he's going through all the drawers in the house, that would not be an armed robbery. I say to you that's ridiculous. I say your argument is ridiculous. Motion in arrest of judgement denied." (See exhibit E-5, line 19-20, E-6, line 1-3.)

It is well recognized that a defendant has a fundamental right under both the federal (U.S. Const, amend VI) and State Constitutions (Ill. Const. 1970, Art. 1 sec. 8, to be informed of the nature and cause of the criminal accusation made against him.

In Illinois this general right is given substance by section 725 ILCS 5/111-3 of the Illinois criminal Code which states: (so much as applicable here)

"Form of charge. (a) a charge shall be in writing and allege the commission of an offense by (1) stating the name of the offense (2) citing the statutory provision alleged to have been violated; (3) setting forth the nature and elements of the offense charged.....

Contemporarily it is a cardinal rule that it is not sufficient for a charging instrument merely to set forth the name of the offense and cite the statute which defines it as an offense; it must set forth also the nature and elements of the offense.

People v. Pujoue, 61 Ill.2d 335, 335 N.E.2d 437. People v. Smith, 99 Ill.2d 467, 77 Ill.Dec. 108, 459 N.E.2d 1367, People v. Sirinsky, 47 Ill.2d 183, 260 N.E.2d 505. While the cases in this state have stopped short of requiring absolute compliance with each step, People v. Smith, 77 Ill.Dec. at 110, 459 Ill.Dec. at 1359, they nonetheless require that a charging instrument give notice of the elements of a charge and particularize it sufficiently with allegations of the essential facts to enable the accused to prepare a defense which if successful would bar further prosecution for the same offense. People v. Hall, 96 Ill.2d 315, 70 Ill.Dec. 836, 450 N.E.2d 309, People v. Heard, 47 Ill.2d 501, 266 N.E.2d 501; People v. Shelton, 42 Ill.2d 490, 248 N.E.2d 65: However, no statute can dispense with a statement in the indictment of the essential elements of the crime charged. People v. Clark, 256 Ill. 14, 99 N.E. 866. This requirement maybe satisfied by proper allegations in the body of the charging instrument even when they vary from the statement of the offense in the caption People v. Sirinsky, 47 Ill.2d 183 at 187, 265 N.E.2d 505 at 509; People v. Sellers, 30 Ill.2d 221, 196 N.E.2d 481; People v. Shaw, 300 Ill. 451, 133 N.E. 208. The petitioner, (as counsel stated in his argument on the motion in arrest of judgement (see exhibit E-2, E-3) And the motion ~~for~~ directed finding (see exhibit D-20-21)) Contends that the way the indictment(s) was pled:

"Kevin Patterson (as the only defendant of relevance ) committed the offense of attempt armed robbery in that they, with the intent to commit the offense of armed robbery by threatening the imminent use of force and while armed with a dangerous weapon, to wit: a gun, did any act, to wit; attempted to remove United States Currency from the person of .....which constituted a substantial step towards the commission of the offense of armed robbery (See exhibit 11) Mislead counsel in preparing his defense and prompted counsel to withhold evidence that would have changed the outcome of the trial. (See affidavit/exhibit #23-23A) The court acknowledged the sufficiency of indictment claim raised by counsel during his argument on the motion for directed finding when the court questioned the state on the wording of the indictment. (See exhibit D-2324) The court cited the indictment has having charged the petitioner with attempt armed robbery from the person only when the court stated:

The court: "He is charged with "from the person."
(See exhibit D-23, line 20-21)

It is well established when the sufficiency of the charging instrument is attacked in trial court before or during trial

a court determines whether the charging instrument strictly complies with the requirements of section 725 ILCS 5/111-3(a) People v. Bentez, 169 Ill.2d 245, 214 Ill.Dec. 490, 661 N.E.2d 344; People v. Thingvold, 145 Ill.2d 441, 164 Ill.Dec. 877, 584 N.E.2d 89. The failure to allege an element of the offense sought to be charged is a fundamental defect that renders the complaint void People v. Johnson, 69 Ill.App.3d 248, 25 Ill.Dec. 732, 387 N.E.2d 388. While the charging instrument may have stated a charge on it's face, it failed to charge an offense based on the facts in the record and to particularize the allegation with enough information so as to inform petitioner of the act it was alleged he committed which constituted the offense of attempt armed robbery and what petitioner was attempting to rob. The charging instrument also failed to specify who the victim was as the state theorized, the "business connections" as stated in the police reports). (see exhibit A) The indictment failed to include "Presence" or any name or reference to anyone other than a person named in the indictment. That person(s) never stated, insinuated or supported an allegation of robbery. Therefore, the court erred in it's ruling on the motion for directed finding when it failed to ensure that the charging instrument strictly complies with the requirements of section 725 ILCS 5/111-3(a). See People v. Scott, 285 Ill.App.3d 95, 220 Ill.Dec. 731, 673 N.E.2d 1152, and to require the state to particularize it's theory in the charging instrument. See People v. Smith, 259 Ill.App.3d 492, 197 Ill.Dec. 516, 631 N.E.2d 738.

In this case the charging instrument not only failed to quote the language of the statute for robbery but also to specifically articulate and present the state's theory of who the actual victim was in it's allegation. Further, petitioner states the court also erred when it used trial evidence for its judgement on the motion in arrest of judgement filed by the defense. It is well established that the judgement on a motion in arrest of judgement raises a question on the sufficiency of the indictment and if filed in post trial, the court must determine whether the charging instrument sufficiently appraised the accused of the precise offense charged with sufficient particularity to enable a defendant to prepare a defense and allow pleading a resulting conviction as a bar to future prosecution arising out of the same conduct. People v. Hughes, 229 Ill.App.3d 469, 170 Ill.Dec. 232, 592 N.E.2d 668. And a ruling on a motion in arrest of judgement opens the entire record for review and reach any defect apparent upon it's face. People v. Lutz, 73 Ill.2d 204, 22 Ill.Dec. 695, 383 N.E.2d 171, and may be based only upon matters appearing on the face of the record and in considering such a motion the court may not consider trial evidence. Scott v. Freeport Casualty Co, 392 Ill. 332, 64 N.E.2d 542. In Re Munzer, 329 N.E.2d 366, at 369.

Motions in arrest of judgement must be decided upon the record and the record in a criminal prosecution includes no more than the indictment the plea, the verdict. (when the plea is not guilty) and the sentence United States v. Bradford, 194 F.2d 197, United States v. Zisblatt, 172 F.2d 740. Such a motion should be granted where there is an error or defect apparent on the face of the record or because of some matter which properly should have appeared of the record but did not. In Re Munzer, 329 N.E.2d 366 at 369. The indictment failure to charge the material allegation "attempt armed robbery from the presence of ...." also, rendered the pleading insufficient People v. Taranto, 2 Ill.2d 476, 119 N.E.2d 221; People v. Figgers, 23 Ill.2d 516, 179 N.E.2d 626. An allegation is so deemed "material" only if it is one which is essential to the crime. People v. Adams, 45 Ill.App.3d 334, 4 Ill.Dec. 7, 359 N.E.2d 890. "Attempting to remove U.S. currency from the person" does not sufficiently describe the act or acts which form the basis of the state's theory which gave rise to this charge, so as to afford petitioner's defense the specificity required that would enable it's preparation to defend against. The indictment did not describe the nature of the acts that constitute the crime alleged. The court erred when it based it's ruling on the motion is arrest of judgement from trial evidence rather than a sufficiency of indictment claim which raised a question of law. This claim would have included how the trial court erred in it's ruling and how the failure to adequately notify the petitioner as to the nature of the offense prejudiced the defense thereby prompting the defense to withhold evidentiary testimony that would have changed the outcome of this case. This abstinence left the record void of adversarial testing of the state's case. Thus allowing the court to fill in unanswered questions with ~~suspise~~ and conjecture on the chief issue at trial which was undefined. The allegation in the charging instrument rested on one point while petitioner's conviction rested on another thus violating the very conceptual core of Due Process of law under the fourteenth Amendment of the United States' constitution See Russell v. United States, 369 U.S. 749, 8 L.Ed.2d 240, 82 S.Ct. 1038 and the Illinois Constitution Article 1 Section 2, See People v. Hughes, 229 Ill.App.3d 469, 170 Ill.Dec. 232, 592 N.E.2d 668 (1992). The failure to raise this issue on appeal was due in part to appeal counsel's failure to consult with petitioner before filing an appeal brief. (See claim 2 (A) of this petition. pg. 16). Thus resulting counsel's actions to fall below a reasonable standard of effectiveness on appeal in violation of the Sixth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution. See Strickland v. Washington, 104 S.Ct. 2052 at 2063 (1984).

(F) The petitioner seeks to reserve issue on the legality of the complaints filed in court on Oct. 6, 1998, (6 days after petitioners arrest) Which commenced prosecution against the petitioner for attempt armed robbery. (This complaint is listed in the common law record on this case under C.L. line 13-14) The petitioner has attempted to ascertain a copy of this document and another document from sources including the clerk of the circuit court with no success. ( See exhibit(s) 25, 26, 27, 28) Failure to provide a copy documents in this case to the petitioner while the petitioner is proceeding pro-se during his appeal when the document could assist the petitioner in his appeal or support a claim of a violation of constitution. 725 ILCS 5/109-1 (b-1) and the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution. See Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83, 83 S.Ct. 1194 (1963).

Petitioner is still attempting to get these documents. At which time the petitioner will either amend this petition with an additional claim or move the court to drop sub-claim "F" under claim (2) "ineffective assistance of appeal attorney", in violation of petitioner Sixth Amendment Rights under the United States Constitution.

AFFIDAVIT OF THERESA SMITH

I, Theresa Smith, being duly sworn under oath, as affiant, deposes and states that:

1. I am the sister of Kevin Patterson, Petitioner/Defendant (herefore referred to as Petitioner) in case No. 98 CR 30064.

2. That affiant does now and at all times relevant to this cause lived in the city of Chicago, County of Cook.

3. That on October 1, 1998, affiant received a phone call during the late p.m. hours from the Petitioner at the Bridge Port police station located at 35th and lowe, in chicago. Who informed affiant that he was in jail on a charge unknown to him at that time, and that he would be going to court the following day after which he would call affiant then. Petitioner did not know where he would appear in court.

4. Affiant did not hear from the Petitioner again until October 7, 1998, when he called from the Cook County Jail. Petitioner stated he had just appeared in court on October 6, 1998, at 51st and Wentworth after being transferred 3 times to different stations before appearing in court.

5. Affiant informed the Petitioner that on October 2, 1998, when the Petitioner did not come home and affiant and other family members did not hear from Petitioner. Affiant called the Bridge Port Police Station on October 3, 1998, and inquired about the Petitioner's whereabouts resulting from his arrest on October 1, 1998.

6. Affiant was told by Bridgeport station personnel that the petitioner was not at the station, the record did not reflect the petitioner as having been at the station. If petitioner had been at the station, it was only for questioning and afterwards he would have been transferred, and it was suggested that affiant call other stations in the area.

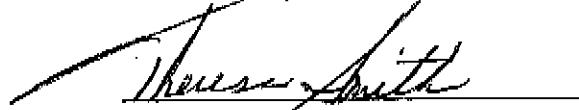

7. That affiant called other stations which included area 002 located at 51st and Wentworth and area 001 located at 11th and State St.

8. Affiant states that each station she called, affiant was told that the petitioner was either in the process of being transferred to another station or was enroute to another station.

9. That at no time did any of the stations contacted allow the petitioner to contact affiant or any member of the family or state why petitioner was being held during his detainment therein.

Further affiant sayeth not.

Kris A. Fry - Director
Public Defenders Office
109 W. Washington
Chicago Illinois 60602

Dear Ms. Fry

My name is Kevin Patterson and I have a appeal pending before the Appellate Court of Cook County, First District (case # 02-06947) and your office has been appointed to represent me. On July 1, 2002 I filed (pro-se) a motion to stay judgement and set appeal bond and on July 26th I received a response back from the court through the appeal division of your office. Mr. James Reddy along with a letter attached to the courts decision from Mr. Reddy.

While the procedure for communicating with me as a client may have been prompt, the representation on the matter issue of counseling on the filing of that motion, was ineffective at best and border lining on denial of legal representation.

To give you some idea to what happened. On or about the first week in April I learned that My appeal had been filed, docketed in the Appellate court and your office assigned to represent me on that appeal. (see exb. A) It was at that time I called your office and was transferred to the appeals division where I was told that no attorney had been assigned to me and that I would need to talk to Mr. Reddy but he was on vacation. Subsequently I was told to call back on or about a given date.

When I called back I talked to Mr. Reddy and I informed him that I wanted to file for a appeal bond. Mr. Reddy's response was very condescending, antagonistic and out right adversarial. Mr. Reddy stated that I would never be set an appeal bond and stated the main reason for this was because I was never out on bond prior to trial, as well as other reasons why I could not get a bond. When I informed Mr. Reddy that I was in fact out on bond for three (3) years prior to trial. He then asked how much was the bond? I told him 50K 10% to apply. Mr. Reddy then stated that if the court set a bond it would be 50K cash this time. I then told Mr. Reddy that it appeared as if he thought I wanted his office to file the motion but I told him that I planned on filing the motion and that I was letting his office know of my intentions since the court appointed the PD's office to represent me on appeal. Mr. Reddy said, ok and asked that I send a courtesy copy to his office addressed to him for the file.

After doing the research and putting the motion together I sent a copy to the Public Defender's Office, addressed to Mr. Reddy. A week later I called and talked to Mr. Reddy. At that time Mr. Reddy stated he had no recollection of our prior conversation, could not remember receiving the motion and could not find the motion. He came back to the phone and stated that it was probably received and when his office receives pro-se motions/petitions, they are put in a file. I then stated that I was also calling to ask if there was anything I needed to do or be aware of before filing the motion. He said "NO" and that I would hear from the court in a week or two with their decision. I filed the motion in July, 02 (see exb. B)

I received a copy of the states reply to the motion I filed, (see exb. C). I did not see a need to reply and I did not want to talk to Mr. Reddy again since I felt I would get no assistance. Several days later I received a decision from the Appellate court through your office, from Mr. Reddy with a note attached to it which to me was insulting. dismissing my motion stating I could not proceed pro-se because the Public Defenders office was assigned to represent me and so pro-se motion would be honored. (see exb. D)

I received no legal counseling or direction on this matter from your office after your office was appointed by the court to represent my interest on appeal. I did not rob anyone or attempt to rob anyone yet I was not given benefit of the law showing my innocence because I am a ex-offender. I had a business and responsibilities that continuously go neglected because of my absence.

Exhibit 17-17A

I would like for your office to review my motion and re-file it through your office. Everything in the motion is true. I have a partial copy of my trial transcript that was ordered during trial, the testimony of the three (3) complainants, my grand jury transcript, copy of the police report and other records from my attorney. If you have any questions I will be happy to answer upon your inquiry. Thank you in advance for your assistance in this matter.

Dear Mr. Patterson:

I am the attorney who will be representing you on your appeal of your convictions for attempt armed robbery and eighteen-year sentence.

I will be writing a brief, which I will file in the appellate court on your behalf. The brief raises all of the things that went wrong with your trial and sentencing hearing. You will receive your copy of the brief as soon as it is filed, which will be in about a week.

The brief argues as follows:

1) that there was no evidence of an attempt to take property or money from the persons of Beals, McGee, and Jones, and that there was a fatal variance between the indictment and the proof; and

2) that you were not eligible for "Class X" sentencing, which was above the maximum sentence, where your prior history was too old to be properly useable under the law.

I will be asking the appellate court to reverse your convictions for attempt armed robbery outright, or alternatively, to vacate your unfair sentence and give you a new sentencing hearing.

After the brief is filed, the State has 35 days (and may take longer) to file its answer brief. Then I have 14 days to file what is called a reply brief, if I believe one is necessary.

Please understand that an appeal is not a second trial and, unfortunately, I can only argue the things that went wrong with your first trial and sentencing hearing. I cannot present any witnesses or present any evidence or exhibits. Everything I do must appear in the written record. Also, I cannot reargue matters such as that the State's witnesses were liars, because the appellate court has no power to view anyone in person to determine one's credibility.

After the appellate process in the appellate court is completed, the appellate court may take several months, or sometimes longer, to decide your appeal in a written decision giving reasons. I know that this all takes a long time, but it is the only way to attempt to get some relief for you.

If you have any questions about the appellate process, please call collect or write me directly at the above address. You will be receiving your copy of your transcript.

Sincerely,

RE: 02-0694

Dear Mr. Patterson:

Your letter to Ms. Fry has been referred to me for response.

There is no copy of your pro se motion for appeal bond in our file and I must conclude that this Office did not receive a copy at the time you filed your pro se motion. Your decision to file a pro se motion instead of waiting to speak to an attorney assigned to handle your appeal was yours and yours alone. As the Appellate Court properly noted, you have no right to "hybrid" representation: you must either represent yourself on appeal or work through your appointed attorney.

You complain that you received "no legal counseling" on this matter from the Public Defender. Appointed counsel does not provide legal counseling on how to proceed pro se. That is what Mr. Reddy meant when he wrote you that, if you wished to proceed pro se, you needed to file a motion seeking that status.

Mr. Reddy's discouragement of your earlier attempt to obtain an appeal bond was based upon his 27 years of appellate experience: the vast majority of such requests are denied.

As you now know (see enclosed letter of 8/19/02), Assistant Public Defender Emily Eisner has been assigned to your appeal and she is in the process of preparing a brief for you. Mr. Reddy is giving the copy of your pro se motion that you sent to Ms. Fry to Ms. Eisner, with directions to file a motion with the Court, seeking an appeal bond for you.

If you have any further questions on your case you should contact Emily Eisner. I hope this clarifies matters for you and I wish you the best of luck.

Sincerely yours,

Enclosed please find your copy of the opening brief that I filed on your behalf in the appellate court. It raises the issues that I discussed in my previous letter to you.

It has also come to my attention that you filed a motion pro se requesting an appeal bond. I shall be doing this for you. (The appellate court does not allow a client who is represented by an attorney to act pro se so your motion had not been considered).

I may need some more information from you (i.e. some personal information like job prospects, and amount of money available for bond), in which case you will be hearing from me again shortly with a form to fill out. On the other hand, I may already have all the information I need to prepare the motion. I will let you know as soon as I get to it, which will be as soon as I can. I hope all is well in the meantime.

Re: Appeal - #02-0694

Dear Ms. Eisner

I am writing you this letter regarding my appeal in which you filed a brief on or about the week of August 19, 2002. I have some serious concerns about the brief in which you filed in my behalf. The first and really major concern is that you filed the brief without talking or communicating with me. The last time I spoke with someone in your office was on or about the first part of July. At that time, I talked to Mr. James Reedy concerning the pro-se motion I submitted requesting an appeal bond, (which he ill advised me on). At that time I was told your office had not received a copy of my transcript so no attorney had been appointed to my case. I was also told that something(I guess a secretary) who answered the phone. After I received a dismissal of my motion from the appellate court which stated I could not proceed pro-se when represented by counsel, I filed a complaint letter against Mr. Reddy to Ms Rita Fry. Two (2) weeks later (on August 23rd) I receive a letter from you stating you had been assigned to my case and you were filing a brief in y behalf in a week. Upon receipt of that letter I tried to reach you the same day with no success. The next day (August 24th) I received a copy of the brief. I again called your office but you were not available. On Monday, (August 26th) I received a partial copy of my transcript. I say partial because the testimony of the three (3) complainants was not enclosed with the transcript. Again all this took place with you talking to me once or allowing me chance to contact you.

Since being at this institution I have researched what I considered to be appealable issues of record and while I am a layman, I meticulously went through the transcript you sent me and I have questions concerning other issues that are linked to the fatal variance issue and another issue concerning the accuracy of the transcript of the proceeding.

The first issue of concern was surrounding the failure of accuracy of the transcript of the proceeding.

The first issue of concern was surrounding the failure of my counsel to object to the line of questioning of the police officer who claims to have seen me going into a desk I was standing by. On pages E-3 and E-4 of the transcript, as well as in the Motion to arrest judgement my counsel, Attorney Chuck Murphy stated because of what was stated in the police report and the indictment he knew the state could not prove their case of Att. Armed Robbery. Yet he allowed the state on direct examination to question a witness about something that was outside of the charge stated in the indictment by failing to object. Subsequently, Judge Himmel, in finding me guilty of armed robbery at first, then settling on attempt armed robbery used the testimony of that officers statement as the basis for his decision.

The second issue of concern surrounds the state's attorney offering a copy of a 1978 conviction for armed robbery to Judge Himmel as a validation for the U.U. W. by a Felon indictment before the state rested it's case. (Transcript page D-14) The court then asked my counsel, Mr. Murphy if he had any objections and he said "NO". (same page, D-14) The state after tendering this document as an exhibit then rested it's case. (Transcript page D-15) I think this was very prejudicial and violated my right to an impartial verdict. I have found case law to support that.

Both issues are of such magnitude they should have been raised on appeal in my opinion. Case law states that if there is a failure enter a timely objection during trial the issue is exempted from raising the issue on appeal unless it is of such a magnitude that it deprives the defendant of a fair trial. I believe this issue is of that magnitude. Other wise the issue can be raised under ineffective assistance of counsel. Either way, the issue can be raised and I believe should have been raised.

Then there is the issue about my transcript. There are some distinct variations from what happened in court to what was transcribed. Some of them has been altered at great length. In one instance there is three (3) pages of statements during the motion hearing by Judge Himmel that never happened. In that statement (that took all of about 30 seconds) Judge Himmel exploded and his verbatim statement was that he was aware of that law and "in his opinion if that's the law, the law is stupid and it's wrong, Motion denied". I am presently in the process of getting affidavits from people in court who heard him state that. All of the information that is recorded on pages E4-E6 most to all of it never took place.

Judge Himmel also asked the states attorney for priors when the state offered a copy of my 1978 conviction for armed robbery before rendering his decision. The Judge Himmel request has been excluded from the transcript.

However, I could not tell you any of this because you never talked to me prior to filing this brief. I think the issues you did file on are well articulated and presented. However, you did lose me on the part of your argument on the issue of the extended sentence. But once again, that's something that could have been discussed if you had talked to me prior to filing this brief.

I have a problem with the way this is going. I took a hands off approach listening to my Attorney Chuck Murphy and I am sitting in prison with eighteen (18) years for something I did not do or attempted to do with eighteen (18) years. Mr. Murphy lied to me on several occasions telling me certain information was not in the police report that now that I have a copy I see that it is. Also there is a issue of the police transferring me from station to station for six days before taking me to court on this case. I talked to the states attorney (Ms. Gemeski) the day I was arrested, the police at the station I was taken to had to call her supervisor because after talking to me and the victims she did not support the charges the police wanted to file. I see from the record that there is no report from her and the detective that was in the room makes it appear in the record that she was only contacted to approve charges. That's not true. But that is an issue for post conviction since that was not raised in direct proceeding. Also, did you know that the police jumped on me at the time of arrest? This is supported by medical record but no action was taken because there was no witnesses? Just food for thought.

At any rate, I have called you at least ten. (10) or more times, sometimes leaving messages in your message box. But I have yet to hear from you in regard to those calls. I have been continuously told that the best time to catch you is in the afternoon after court but when I call you are never available. Are you avoiding talking to me Ms. Eisner? If so, let me know and I will stop calling.

But I/we do need to resolve the issues at hand A.S.A.P. I am not satisfied with the counseling, representation and ethical practices of the Public Defenders Office since your office's appointment to represent me. I think this brief was rushed because of my allegations against Mr. Reedy, so thus, you by passed talking to me. I also think issues for appeal that are clearly supported by case law and constitute due process violations are being intentionally overlooked. It just seems to be more convenient, and a lot easier to put someone back in prison who has a background innocent or guilty. But, the fact remains "I did not do this".

At any rate, we need to talk. I will call you Friday, August 20th between 3-4 PM or 4-5PM. If I am unable to reach you, I will call Monday August 23rd. Sorry for the lack of preciseness, but I am in prison. Thank you.....

Sincerely

Affidavit

I, Kevin Patterson, Petitioner in this cause (herefore referred to as affiant) being duly sworn under oath deposes and states that:

1. Affiant was detained, and arrested on an unknown charge by members of the Brigdeport Police Department, (District Station #009) in Chicago on Oct. 1, 1998.
2. That while at District Station #009, and at all times prior to Affiants first court appearance on Oct 6, 1998 was Affiant was never told what he was being arrested for.
3. That Affiant was apprehended by Officer Giglio and beaten by him and other members of District Station #009 of the Chicago Police Department on Oct 1, 1998 in which Affiant received a busted ear, bruised ribs, knee and other injuries that was medically recorded at the Cook County Jail.
4. Affiant filed a complaint with the Office of Professional Standards in or about Nov. 1998 after his release on bond on Oct 20, 1998 from the arrest of Oct. 1, 1998, from the beating he suffered from that arrest.
5. That if Affiant had testified at trial, Affiant would testify to the following facts.
6. That Affiant had a friend, Sharon Jenkins who died in one of Connexions residential living facilities from an alleged drug overdose.
7. That the reason why Sharon Jenkins was in that facility was at the insistence of Affiant to help her get off drugs. Ms. Jenkins was a life long friend.
8. That all while Sharon's Residency at the connexions facility, Sharon repeatedly warned Affiant of constant sexual and abusive harassment from the three (3) connection employee's, Clarence Beals, Felise McGee, and Tim Jones which included a battery and attempt rape and that she was scared.
9. Affiant thought at the time that Sharon was having "cold feet" about enduring the withdrawal and encouraged her to hang tough.
10. Shortly after several conversations with Sharon, about those allegations, Affiant had to leave town on a job related assignment and upon his return Affiant learned that Sharon was dead, and had died at the facility from an alleged overdose.
11. That Affiant talked to other residents of the facility and police about Sharon's death and after those inquiries, Affiant believed that Clarence Beals, Felise McGee and Tim Jones had something to do with Sharon's death.
12. Affiant conveyed his belief and basis for his belief to the police, but was told nothing new was determined after a few days to warrant further investigation.

Exhibit 23

13. That Affiant went to connexctions for the purpose of putting Clarence Beals, Felise McGee and Tim Jones on notice that people was aware of their actions and that it was going to stop.

14. That Affiant went to connexctions to talk to Clarence Beals, Felise McGee and Tim Jones. Not to shoot or rob connexctions or anyone.

15. That Affiant made one statement; you all are using this organization to murder, rape, rip people off, the shit is going to stop here and now.

16. Clarence Beals, Felise McGee and Tim Jones started yelling and pacing uncontroably stating "he's going to kill us".

17. That Affiant attempted to regain control of the situation trying to assure them that Affiant was there to talk.

18. That Affiant finally got the three (3) to settle down after yelling "shut the hell up". Affiant then stated "you are going to hear what I have to say, and as I said, the bullshit is going to stop here and now". Clarence Beals, Felise McGee and Tim Jones went ballistic again.

19. At that point, Affiant again yelled "shut the fuck up" and further stated, "you all are going to hear what I have to say, get on the floor".

20. Suffice to say Clarence Beals did not lay on the floor, rather he ran down the hallway that began at the southend of the back desk, and a struggle between Affiant and Beals ensued in the hallway, when beals grabed the gun. When Affiant pulled the gun away, Beals, fired the gun which was pointing at the ceiling, at the time.

21. Affiant pushed Beals from him stating "are you crazy, I just want to talk to you" and Beals hesitated, then pulled boards from a door, where he exited the building.

22. Affiant returned to the front of the office to retrieve his brief case. Upon returning to the front, when Affiant exited the hallway, he stopped and was standing by the desk where Affiant had layed his brief case.

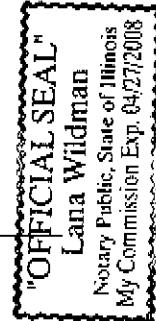

23. A few seconds later movement in the office alerted Affiant to a police officers presence. Affiant grabed at his brief case pulling it across the desk. Affiant did not have a firm grip on the cloth brief case and when the case cleared the desk, it fell to the floor behing the desk. Affiant bent over, picked up the brief case, then ran out the back door.

24. Affiant never touched any desk, had any knowledge of money being at connexctions giving intent to rob connexctions or hurt anyone. Affiant had something to say, and if allowed to testify, this is what Affiant would have testified to and more.

Further Affiant sayth not.

Now comes Kevin Patterson (herefore known as Affiant) being duly sworn upon oath depose and state that:

1. He (Affiant is the Petitioner/Defendant in this cause before the court case numbered 98 CR 30064.
2. That being a Defendant in that case, Affiant hired an attorney, Charles G. Murphy, of the law firm of Murphy, Peters', Davis & O'Brien on or about February of 1999 as counsel on the case numbered 98 CR 30064.
3. Affiant states that outside court appearances, that Affiant had three (3) consultation periods with Attorney Murphy to discuss issues concerning the case of 98 CR 30064.
4. That during these consultation periods, the six (6) day dentention of Affiant after his arrest and prior to his first appearance in court was one of the main topic's discussed between Affiant and Attorney Murphy.
5. Affiant told Attorney Murphy that he (Affiant) never attempted to rob anyone and based on what happened at the police station after his arrest. (Station #009) Affiant thought he may be charged with U.U.W. by a felon, and that Affiant did not know what he was charged with until his first appearance in court on October 6, 1998, six (6) days after his arrest.
6. Affiant also told Attorney Murphy that he was sure the police reports on this case was re-written because the police at District Station #009 wanted charges approved for Attempt Murder, and had written & typed up reports consistent with that charge prior to the arrival of a States Attorney at the station.

Exhibit 24

7. Attorney Murphy was further told that the States Attorney did not want to file charges after talking to the alleged victims and Affiant and that the police got angry and called her (the States Attorney's) supervisor.
8. That minutes after the call, the police station (among themselves but in the presence of Affiant) that they had to go over the "bitch's" head to get charges approved by calling her supervisor and they finally got her to approve "A" charge. What the charge was, was never stated.
9. Affiant told Attorney Murphy that minutes later, he was placed in lock-up at District Station #009 until on or about 2 AM when he was transferred to District Station #002 at 51st Wentworth where (Affiant) remained two (2) days until October 4, 1998, at which time Affiant was transferred to District Station #001 at 11th and State where he remained until his appearance in court on October 6, 1998.
10. Affiant also told Attorney Murphy that Affiant was allowed to make a phone call at District Station #009 on or about 10 PM on October 1, 1998 and was not allowed to make another phone call until his placement in the Cook County Jail after October 6, 1998. Neither did Affiant talk to anyone in an official capacity during the extended five (5) day detainment about the case in which he was arrested or any other case.
11. Affiant told Attorney Murphy his belief that the charge did not reflect what the police was trying to question him about, what Affiant believed police at District Station #009 was trying to charge him with and what the reports was based on prior to the State's Attorney's arrival at the station.
12. Affiant expressed his belief to Attorney Murphy that the delay in bringing Affiant to court was because the police at District Station #009 needed time to re-write the reports because the alleged victims felt Affiant was there to hurt them, and at no time did Affiant ever hear anyone state or allude to Affiant attempting to rob anyone or anything.

Exhibit 24A

13. Attorney Murphy stated "I know, I believe you because no where in these reports did these guys ever say you tried to rob them." Affiant states he never saw any police reports until after his conviction and sentencing.

14. Attorney Murphy also stated to Affiant that the police would say that the failure to take Affiant to court was inadvertant and if the reports were late it is detectable because on the date of filing, police procedure states that all police reports were to be date/time stamped to verify the date of filing. Attorney Murphy stated he would see when all the reports had been tendered on discovery. Affiant never heard anything else about that issue.

15. Affiant states he told Attorney Murphy during consultation of Affiant's wish to testify once the case went to trial. Attorney Murphy and Affiant even went over questions that would be asked if Affiant did testify. Attorney Murphy re-iterated Affiant would testify if necessary.

16. That after the State had rested it's case and before Attorney Murphy rested the defense, Affiant told Attorney Murphy's of Affiant's wish/need to testify due to the courts stated belief that the State had proven it's case against Affiant in that Affiant had committed an Armed Robbery.

17. Attorney Murphy told Affiant "no" there was no need for Affiant to testify because the State had not proven it's case and despite the fact of the denial of the Motion of Directed Finding by the court, no need for Affiant to testify. Attorney Murphy then turned around and walked away.

18. Subsequently, Attorney Murphy then rested and argued for the defense. The court denied the argument and found Affiant guilty of Attempt Armed Robbery.

Further Affiant Sayth Not.

1 assisting.

2 You are not going to hear any testimony that
3 my client came into that premise and announced a 4 stick-up or robbery. He never said anything to that
5 effect. You will hear from the prosecution witnesses
6 that what he did say, though, is that he was "sick and 7 tired of you motherfuckers taking good people's money
8 and stuffing your pockets with it," or words to that 9 effect. These are the words that will be attributable
10 to my client, nothing about what stickup.

11 There were three, at least three people who 12 were present in the rear of the office at that time.
13 One of the individuals, and I believe that 14 individual's name is Mr. Beals, undoubtedly because he 15 saw a handgun, was concerned for his own well-being 16 for this own safety, what he chose to do -- I'm not 17 being critical of this -- what he chose to do was to 18 push my client, who was standing there with a gun
19 announcing his dissatisfaction with how they were 20 treating people, grabbed at my client with the gun.
21 The gun did go off, but there was no specific intent,
22 I believe you will conclude, to fire the gun at that 23 individual, nor is there even a knowing attempt to 24 fire the gun.

1 you were seated at your desk, is that right?

2 A Yes.

3 Q When he came back there, you testified here
4 today that he said to you that he wanted you to get 5 up, turn around and get on the ground?

6 A No. He indicated that -- told me to get up,
7 turn around and walk to the back of the office.

8 Q And he said that he had a gun?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Showed you that he had a gun?

11 A After I looked up the second time, I saw that 12 he had a gun, yes.

13 Q At least initially, you complied with what he 14 told you to do. By that I mean you got up and started 15 to walk to the back, did you not?

16 A Yes.

17 Q You testified here today that he said --
18 someone was asking him why he was there or what he was 19 doing and you said here today that he brought up some 20 philosophical concerns he had about money, is that 21 correct?

22 A More so about people, in terms of poor people
23 and money.

24 Q He never said to you that he was there to rob

1 you, did he?

2 A No.

3 Q He never said to you or any one else in the 4 back, back of the office, that he wanted your money or 5 their money, is that correct?

6 A That's correct.

7 Q He never attempted to take money -- I don't
8 know if you had any money on you, but he never 9 attempted to take anything from you personally,
10 did he?

11 A No.

12 Q Same question of the other two people that 13 were in the back of the office. Did he attempt to take 14 anything from them?

15 A No, sir.

16 Q Sir, you decided that you had an opportunity 17 to escape. You chose to attempt to escape through the 18 back door, isn't that right?

19 A Yes.

20 Q And the back door had on it two wooden 21 two-by-fours, or something like that, and they were 22 lodged in the back as security bars, were they not?

23 A Yes.

24 Q You testified that when you made that

1 A Yes.

2 Q What happened after you got out the front
3 door?

4 A Immediately after I exited the building, I
5 headed north toward 51st and Western. I saw a police
6 car there. I flagged the police car down. I told him
7 there was a guy in there with a gun, he had just shot
8 one of my colleagues.

9 Q Did you see where the police went at this 10 time?

11 A They immediately jumped out of the car. They 12 ran inside the building. The next thing I saw, because 13 I was on 51st and Western at that point, was the young
14 lady and a man -- the police officer chasing Mr.
15 Patterson down the alley. He ran across 51st Street,
16 continued to run north until he was out of my sight.

17 Q And do you recall what the Defendant was 18 wearing?

19 A Yes, I do.

20 Q What was he wearing?

21 A He was wearing a black satin jacket, white
22 shirt, tie, dark-colored tie. I'm not sure what color
23 tie it was.

24 Q You said he had a handgun. In addition to

1 Q Yes, Mr. Beals was in front of him?

2 A He was right behind Mr. Beals with the gun.

3 Q You saw Mr. Patterson seated at the front in 4 the reception area, did you not?

5 A Yes.

6 Q Your view of him was unobstructed, was it
7 not?

8 A What do you mean "unobstructed"?

9 Q There was nothing between you and him from 10 seeing something?

11 A No.

12 Q When Mr. Patterson got to the location where 13 you were seated, which is before you get to the rear
14 door, did he tell you to give him the money that was 15 in the desk drawer?

16 A No. He didn't ask me about the money.

17 Q Now, you testified that you heard a shot
18 fired. When you heard the shot fired you turned 19 around a little bit to see if everything was okay?

20 A Well, I really didn't have to turn too far,
21 because the office is not that big of an office. I 22 looked to the side. It was right on the side. I could 23 look to see if Mr. Beals was okay.

24 Q Was he and Mr. Beals at that point, when the 1 Q Were you on patrol then?

2 A Yes.

3 Q Were you on foot or in a car?

4 A I was in a squad car.

5 Q Who were you working with?

6 A Officer Lane Campbell.

7 Q As you approached the area of 5102 South
8 Western, what happened?

9 A Three gentleman came running out of a
10 business office at that location and stopped our squad
11 car.

12 Q What happened after they stopped the squad
13 car?

14 A They were yelling at us that there was 15 somebody inside the building with a gun; that he was 16 there now. He had a gun.

17 Q What did you do when you heard that?

18 A My partner and I exited the vehicle. I was 19 driving. My partner was running to the front door.
20 So, I notified him that I would head to the rear door,
21 started heading toward the back of the building.

22 Q How did you go in order to get to the back of 23 the building?

24 A There was not a gangway at 5102, so I had to

1 Artesian northbound.

2 Q And when you saw that, what did you do?

3 A I waited in the alley until I could see what 4 direction they were going to turn. When they got into 5 the alley, I was giving a flash message over the 6 radio, the description of the car.

7 Q Did you later see the Defendant who had run
8 past you in the alley and got in this car?

9 A Yes, ma'am, I did, when another arresting
10 officer brought him to the scene.

11 Q When you say "the scene", 5102?

12 A 5102.

13 Q South Western?

14 A Yes, ma'am.

15 Q And approximately how much later was that 16 from the time you saw him running through the alley?

17 A I would say it was about 15 to 20 minutes.

18 Q Can you describe the car that you saw this 19 Defendant getting into?

20 A It was of light color, like a light gray
21 Cadillac with a dark vinyl roof, a black vinyl roof.

22 Q Could you see the driver of the car, of the 23 Cadillac?

24 A Just the back of his head, ma'am.

1 Q Did anyone you know open or shut doors
2 while you were present before the --

3 A No, sir, nobody touched that desk while I was 4 there but I was gone for a while.

5 Q Would it be correct, sir, the view you had of 6 this desk from your vantage point not only would not 7 have permitted you to see the desk drawers you would 8 not have known from your vantage point whether or not 9 a desk drawer was opened or shut because you couldn't 10 see the drawers, is that correct?

11 A I could see him with his hand down rummaging.

12 Q You could see him bent over with his arm
13 down, is that correct?

14 A That's correct.

15 Q When he fled out the back door am I correct
16 or maybe I'm incorrect, did you see him with a bag?

17 A Yes. He had -- well I thought it was a case
18 but it turned out to be a bag.

19 Q You could not actually see the drawer that 20 you say that he was rummaging in, is that right?

21 A When I first walked in, no I couldn't see it.

22 MR. MURPHY: I have nothing else.

23 MS. HOWARD: I have no questions.

24 THE COURT: Thank you, sir. Unless state has

1 50th Street and the other one by the alley.

2 Q. Which of the two men was by 50th Street?

3 A. The tallest one. I don't know his name.

4 Q. And then the man near the alley would be the 5 other man you have identified as Mr. Akbar?

6 A. Yes, he is the one who asked me for the 7 water.

8 Q. After you went inside your house what did you
9 see this defendant Akbar do?

10 MS. HOWARD: Objection. Leading. Asked and
11 answered.

12 THE COURT: Overruled. Overruled.

13 THROUGH THE INTERPRETER: A. Well, they were 14 just pacing back and forth, desperate. One on 50th, 15 one by the alley. When the police came, then they 16 locked the car and ran. They ran. When the police 17 came I told them they were on 50th and that is where 18 they got 'em.

19 MS. KURUC: Q. Who? Who?

20 THROUGH THE INTERPRETER: A. What's the 21 question?

22 Q. Who? You said you saw the car being locked.
23 Who locked the car?

24 A. The one who was closest to me, the one who

OFFICIAL COURT REPORTERS

1 asked me for water. Locked the car and then they ran.

2 Q. Before the car was locked, did you see this
3 defendant do anything else?

4 MS. HOWARD: Objection, leading. Asked and
5 answered.

6 THE COURT: Now, why is that leading? Just 7 tell me leading is stating the fact that you want to be
8 in evidence and asking yes or no. Asking a question 9 which gives the witness an opportunity to respond is 10 not leading.

11 MS. HOWARD: She has asked the question at 12 least three times and he has answered it three 13 different times saying they were standing --

14 THE COURT: Not exactly. Go ahead. Overruled.

15 MS. KURUC: Did you need me to repeat the 16 question?

17 THROUGH THE INTERPRETER: Yes, please.

18 MS. KURUC: Q. Before you saw the defendant
19 Akbar lock the car, did you see him do anything else?

20 THROUGH THE INTERPRETER: A. Oh, yes. He 21 threw a bag. I don't know what bag it was but he threw 22 it inside the garbage can.

23 MS. KURUC: Q. After this defendant and the 24 other man ran away did the police come?

(WHEREUPON, People's Exhibit

No. 18 was so received

into evidence.)

MS. DILLON: And this is a defense exhibit that was already admitted. State rests.

[STATE RESTS]

THE COURT: Anything? State rests.

MR. MURPHY: May I address the court?

THE COURT: Please.

MR. MURPHY: On behalf of my client, Judge, I would be moving at this time for a directed finding of not guilty as to the allegations regarding attempt first degree murder.

THE COURT: Sustained.

MR. MURPHY: Aggravated --

THE COURT: Plea of not guilty; finding not guilty, attempt murder.

MR. MURPHY: I would move simultaneously in regard to Count No. 2, the aggravated discharge of a firearm.

THE COURT: That will be denied.

MR. MURPHY: Attempt robbery's count 3. And I wish to argue.

THE COURT: Well, you can argue in the light

OFFICIAL COURT REPORTERS

1 most favorable to the state. At this time I believe
2 they proved an armed robbery. But go ahead. We are 3 taking the light most favorable to the state. Just 4 because he didn't get away with the proceeds in the 5 drawer doesn't make this an attempt. I think in the 6 light most favorable to the state, they have proved a 7 shooting that may or may be an accident, but I think in 8 the light most favorable to the state, they didn't
9 prove an attempt robbery, they proved an armed robbery.

10 MR. MURPHY: Well, undoubtedly, sir, you
11 recall that no one's testified that any property from 12 any person of any type was taken.

13 THE COURT: That's my point exactly. My point
14 is just because property wasn't taken, it doesn't mean 15 that your client wasn't attempting to remove or find 16 something.

17 MR. MURPHY: Okay.

18 THE COURT: I believe that there is such a 19 thing as an armed robbery. Even if you accost somebody
20 on the street and they don't have any money or anything
21 to take, I still think it's an armed robbery. And if 22 he missed the money in the drawer, shame on him. But I
23 think that they established an armed robbery and I
24 think that the State's Attorney's office was a little

OFFICIAL COURT REPORTERS

1 light in charging. But that's besides the point.

2 MR. MURPHY: All right. One second to speak
3 with my client.

4 THE COURT: Did you wish to address me as far
5 as your client? He can take his time. I will allow 6 him. But at the close of the state's evidence, in the 7 light most favorable to the state I think they proved
8 an armed robbery against Kevin Patterson.

9 MS. HOWARD: On behalf of Mr. Jamal Akbar, I
10 make a motion for judgment of acquittal. Even looking 11 at the evidence in the light most favorable to the 12 state, they haven't proved anything.

13 THE COURT: I'll tell you exactly what they 14 have. They have him putting the stuff in the garbage
15 can. There are fifty million reasons why he is doing
16 something after the fact that wouldn't make him
17 accountable for this act without anything. But with 18 that one gesture, in the light most favorable to the 19 state, he does look like he is taking part in this 20 entire scenario. But, you know, in my own mind I can 21 think of fifty different innocent reasons why he would 22 do what he did under these circumstances without any 23 prior conversation, any planning, any scheme, any 24 statements offered in furtherance of this joint

OFFICIAL COURT REPORTERS

1 money, is that correct?" He responded, "That's
2 correct."

3 "He never attempted to take money -- I don't
4 know if you had any money on you -- but he never 5 attempted to take anything from you personally, did he?

6 'No.'" I then said same question of the other two 7 people that were in the back of the office. "Did he 8 attempt to take anything from them? 'No, sir.'"

9 My client is charged in three of the counts
10 with attempt armed robbery. In regard to the way the 11 charging document reads, count 3, it alleges that my 12 client, while he was armed with a handgun, attempted to 13 remove United States currency from the person of 14 Clarence Beals. Beals denied that my client attempted
15 to take any currency from him.

16 As to the next count. It alleges again that 17 my client, while he was armed with a handgun but now
18 alleges that he attempted to remove United States
19 currency from the person of Timmy Jones. Well, he 20 never did that either. The next count is that my 21 client committed the offense of attempt armed robbery
22 in that he was armed with a handgun, attempted to 23 remove United States currency from a person of 24 Felice McGee. Well, he never did any of those things.

OFFICIAL COURT REPORTERS

1           The prosecution's theory in this case, as I
2 understand it now, is that my client was trying to take
3 United States currency that was in a drawer but not
4 from the person of any person who was in the business
5 premises. The prosecution's theory is that my client
6 was bending over when the officer came in and rummaging
7 around in the drawer. Well, you now know, and the 8 officer had conceded, that he couldn't see my client's
9 hand in any drawer because he was looking at the wrong
10 side of the desk. What we do know is my client at some 11 point in time left the premises with a gun and at some 12 point in time placed it in a bag and placed that bag
13 inside of another bag which wound up in a garbage can.
14 It is equally likely my client when the officer saw him
15 bending over was placing the gun in the bag.

16           In any event, nothing was taken from the 17 drawer either.

18           The charging document was very specific in 19 what it alleged in regard to the offense of attempt 20 armed robbery, it alleges he was attempting to take
21 property from the person of three different individuals
22 who were present and there is not one scintilla of 23 evidence to support the contention that that is what he 24 did. Indeed the prosecution -- very briefly, at the

1 risk of repeating myself -- will argue to you he was
2 there to take the currency from Connections, an entity
3 not a person.

4 In regard to the second count, the aggravated
5 discharge of a firearm. The evidence --

6 THE COURT: Not guilty. Not guilty. Move on.
7 Not guilty. Aggravated discharge.

8 MR. MURPHY: I suggested to you in my opening
9 remarks and I was willing to concede then that the 10 prosecution's evidence would establish the offense of 11 UOW by felon. I think the evidence bore that out. I
12 suggested then that that would be an appropriate
13 finding and I make that same suggestion now.

14 MS. DILLON: Judge, I think you have to look at 15 the evidence as it came in as a whole and where this 16 attempt armed robbery starts is when this defendant
17 walks into Connections, and as he waits in Connections
18 Tim Jones and Felice McGee are in the back. They are 19 counting money. You heard them tell you how when they 20 saw the defendant who was sitting in that big open
21 room, as you can see from the photographs, they took a
22 measure to put the money away because they were in a 23 big open room and the defendant was sitting there and 24 they didn't know the defendant.

OFFICIAL COURT REPORTERS

1           Is it just a coincidence that as soon as they
2 put the money in the drawer the defendant is up and 3 over to Mr. Beals, displays that gun, and makes 4 Mr. Beals go to the back where Felice McGee and 5 Tim Jones are and wants them to lie down? This is 6 clearly what the defendant is doing here. He is trying 7 to rob the people at Connections.

8           Tim Jones, Felice McGee, Clarence Beals, who 9 had an opportunity to observe, you saw their demeanor
10 and they told you what happened there. This defendant 11 armed with that handgun was trying to rob them. And 12 just because he wasn't able to get the money right
13 there as they are sitting there, well they try and 14 escape, they try and run, and that's why it is the 15 defendant is then rummaging through the desk.

16           You have a Chicago police officer who has 17 been flagged down, seeing the defendant trying to 18 complete his crime, trying to go through that desk,
19 trying to get that money. Judge, the evidence in this 20 case is clear as to what the defendant was doing.

21           And remember what Officer Fudash (Phonetics)
22 said to you. He said that he could see the defendant
23 rummaging. And one important thing that he said was,
24 "When he looked up and he saw me, he dropped something

OFFICIAL COURT REPORTERS

1 from his hand. It wasn't a gun." The defendant
2 clearly at that point startled by the police officer
3 being there, dropped whatever he has and then flees.

4 Judge, we ask that you find the defendant
5 guilty of the attempt armed robbery and of the charges
6 related to the gun.

7 THE COURT: Which victims?

8 MS. KURUC: Judge, all three victims, the part 9 of the crime. Felice McGee and Tim Jones are in the 10 back and then the defendant himself.

11 THE COURT: Okay. How about part of counsel's 12 argument where it charges specifically attempted to 13 remove United States currency from the person without 14 the added word or presence of Clarence Beal, 15 Timmy Jones, Felice McGee?

16 MS. DILLON: Judge, I believe the case law
17 supports the fact taking from something from the 18 presence of someone. It doesn't have to be exactly on 19 the person.

20 THE COURT: He is charged with "from the 21 person."

22 MS. KURUC: Well, on the person. The case law
23 as well would --

24 THE COURT: Include presence?

OFFICIAL COURT REPORTERS

1 MS. DILLON: Yes.

2 THE COURT: On the persons or in their
3 presence?

4 MS. DILLON: That's correct. And case law --

5 THE COURT: You are secure in that these
6 charging documents are sufficient to support the facts
7 as testified to in this case?

8 MS. DILLON: Yes, Judge.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Go ahead.

10 MS. DILLON: Judge, I believe that the case law
11 supports that even as charged from the person it's been 12 held that the person, it doesn't have to be taken out
13 of their pocket or any direct action like that. The 14 way this case is charged from the person, from the 15 defendant's actions when he first goes back there with 16 the gun to Felice McGee to Tim Jones to Clarence Beals, 17 he is in the process of committing this attempt armed 18 robbery. He takes substantial steps in going back 19 there with that gun, forcing them to the ground to 20 accomplish that end. He isn't able to accomplish the 21 actual taking and he is able to at least run out of the 22 building but then he is caught by the Chicago Police
23 Department. We ask that you find him guilty.

24 THE COURT: I have pretty much heard the

OFFICIAL COURT REPORTERS

1 evidence. I believe based on the evidence that I heard
2 that Kevin Patterson went there, like Robinhood to rob
3 from someone he disagreed with, to maybe it wasn't for 4 his own personal use, but he went there to rob this 5 place and did in fact take substantial step towards
6 that by not getting any proceeds. But he went there
7 armed with a .38. They proved to me beyond a
8 reasonable doubt that Kevin Patterson is guilty of 9 attempt armed robbery, three counts, and felony
10 possession of a weapon based on a prior armed robbery
11 conviction and him being armed with that .38. I 12 certainly believe that an aggravating feature is the 13 discharge of this gun during the course of this, what I
14 believe, is an armed robbery.

15           Certainly the specific intent was to commit
16 armed robbery and a substantial step was taken. The 17 only thing missing was proceeds and certainly the armed 18 robbery was done in the presence of the three 19 individuals who are named as victims. It is clear to 20 me that the state's evidence proved to me beyond a
21 reasonable doubt that Kevin Patterson, not by accident, 22 not by misadventure, not by any other stretch of the 23 imagination was he there to rectify some other wrong
24 perceived by him, but went there to rob this place of

1 THE CLERK: Kevin Patterson

2 MR. MURPHY: Judge Himel, I'm Chuck Murphy. Mr.
3 Patterson is standing next to me. With your 4 permission this morning I filed a document entitled a
5 Motion in Arrest of Judgment and also hand up a copy
6 of a case which I believe supports the position in the 7 defendant's motion. I tender a copy not only of the 8 motion to you but the state's attorney. Might it be 9 wise to pass the case?

10 THE COURT: Let me take a look here. Okay.

11 Are you ready to argue?

12 MR. MURPHY: I am.

13 THE COURT: I'm not familiar with this case.
14 Judge Louis Garippo, 1977? All right. Motion in 15 Arrest of Judgment. Argue.

16 MR. MURPHY: Judge, undoubtedly you recall by my 17 opening comments at the bench trial as well as closing 18 comments I conceded to you that I believed that the 19 prosecution had established something during the 20 course of trial; and what I was eluding to, of course, 21 was the count or counts, if it were multiple, of 22 unlawful use of a weapon by felon.

23 I was unwilling to concede that the 24 prosecution could establish other matters which were

1 set forth the way that they were pled. In this
2 particular case which I have cited which is a good
3 discussion of the law -- the facts in that case,
4 though, are the other side of the legal coin of the 5 way that the indictment read in this particular case.

6 In this case, Mr. Patterson's case, the 7 way the indictment was formed it's alleged little my 8 client purportedly took or attempted, I should say, to 9 take money from the presence of the three named 10 individuals who testified. The State elected for 11 reasons I would not know not to include in the 12 charging document that this attempt was done merely in 13 the presence of those three people.

14 What I did is I relied upon the charging 15 document in the preparation of my defense. I relied 16 upon the fact that I did not believe that the 17 prosecution could establish that my client attempted
18 to take property from these three named individuals.

19 Now, the way the case developed, the way
20 the testimony came out, I did ask those three named
21 individuals when they would testify if my client ever 22 attempted, commanded, or directed them to give 23 property to him; and, of course, they agreed with what 24 I thought was going to be their obvious answer, having

1       read the police reports, that my client never did
2       that.

3                   In sum what I did is I relied upon that
4       charging document. I did not ask for a 402 Conference
5       in this particular case because I believe the 6       prosecution had confined themselves to proof that
7       would show, if they could do it, that my client sought
8       to take property from those people. The evidence did
9       not support that theory.

10                  Mr. Patterson and his attorney relied 11       upon it. It's not being raised for the first time on 12       appeal. It was raised at trial, and it's been 13       reviewed again at this juncture of the proceedings in 14       a post-trial fashion.

15                  I believe that there was a fatal
16       variance, and that Mr. Patterson, the defendant, is 17       entitled to the benefit of the doubt where it exists.
18       It does exist.

19                  THE COURT: State?

20                  MS. DILLON: Judge, our position was that the 21       defendant did attempt to take --

22                  THE COURT: Well, I think I made my position
23       pretty clear on this. Not only did he attempt, I
24       think he completed the armed robbery. You know, I

1 think we have an office. We have got a place where
2 the evidence would show that the rents were collected,
3 that there was money present in the place, and the man
4 comes in with the gun and accosts three people in the 5 officer there and is rummaging around. All the 6 elements of an armed robbery was proven except that he 7 didn't get away with the proceeds.

8 It's clear to me that if this is the law
9 in the United States of America, that's a joke.
10 Because the overall facts would make what you're 11 saying a real joke because the facts themselves are 12 clear. The facts as stated in this Court showed an 13 armed robbery took place. He's charged with attempt 14 armed robbery. The facts overwhelmingly proved to me
15 that he, with the intent to commit a robbery armed 16 with a gun, went into this establishment and attempted
17 to remove items from that establishment by threatening
18 the people involved there with a gun.

19 There's no question about his guilt.
20 You citing me that this case is paramount to you
21 saying that if in fact somebody comes up to somebody 22 with a gun and then turns their back maybe and it's 23 outside their presence, he's going through all the 24 drawers in the house; that would not be an armed

1 robbery. I say to you that's ridiculous. I say your
2 argument is ridiculous. Motion in Arrest of Judgment
3 is denied.

4                   The evidence is clearly that 5 overwhelmingly that he entered this place for the 6 purpose of robbing it, that the only thing he didn't
7 do was to get away with the proceeds from this armed 8 robbery.

9                   The State indicted him for attempt
10 because he didn't get away with the proceeds. I think 11 robbery -- the armed robbery is completed even if he 12 doesn't get the proceeds by the mere fact he went in 13 there, he made his wishes known in the manner in which 14 he spoke. It's the clear meaning. The facts would 15 indicate that he was there to take money. His Robin 16 Hood approach that the money was going to be given to 17 somebody else more worthy than the people in this 18 establishment, it is something that should be done in 19 court, not at gunpoint by an individual vigilante.

20                  He may have every friend in the world,
21 but this man committed an armed robbery. He was only
22 charged with attempt armed robbery. I found him
23 guilty of attempt armed robbery. There's a judgment
24 on my finding. Your motion in arrest of judgment is

1                   THE COURT: On Kevin Patterson, I did admonish him
2 on rights of appeal.

3                   Let's bring out Mr. Patterson again,
4 please.

5                   MR. MURPHY: In the interest of saving time would 6 you appoint the Public Defender's Office?

7                   THE COURT: Yes.

8                   Okay. Sentence of the court, 18 years
9 Illinois Department of Corrections. The defendant to 10 receive ninety-seven (97) days time credit.

11                  Certainly, young man, you do have a 12 right to appeal. You have thirty days from today's 13 date to file with this Court a written motion
14 indicating your Notice of Appeal and Petition for 15 Stenographic Transcript of these Proceedings. That 16 must be in writing; and, certainly, if you are 17 indigent I will appoint the Public Defender to perfect
18 your rights to appeal. Do you understand those 19 rights?

20                  DEFENDANT PATTERSON: Yes, I do.

21                  MR. MURPHY: That is his request.

22                  THE COURT: Okay.

23                  Public Defender appointed to perfect
24 rights to appeal.
